

Advocates of Hatch Measure Confident of Final Approval Believe Filibuster Would be Only Way of Killing It DELAY REFUSED

Opponents Fail in Effort To Sidetrack It for Farm Measure

Washington (P)—The senate headed into a long, new discussion of anti-politics legislation today after supporters predicted that only a full-fledged filibuster could kill it.

The legislation, sponsored by Senator Hatch (D-N.M.), would broaden the Hatch law by placing state employees paid partly from federal funds under present restrictions against political activity by federal workers.

Although opponents joined forces yesterday with many farm state senators to try to displace it with the $223,000,000 farm appropriation bill, the senate sprang a surprise and voted 47 to 38 to continue the week-long debate.

Republicans, who had been reported in tacit agreement with the proposal to take up the farm measure, voted solidly against shelving the Hatch legislation.

Assail Republicans

The decision came after Senator Minton (D-Ind.), the majority whip, had given the Republicans a tongue-lashing for their stand on the measure.

"Talk about pure politics," Minton shouted. "The Republicans are trying to Hatch-act the Democrats out of Washington. They are playing smart politics, walking up to the line like a bunch of rubber stamps and voting for the Hatch act."

Although supporters of the Hatch measure hoped for a vote late today or tomorrow, Minton told reporters that "a vote in the next few days is impossible."

"We will debate it for two weeks if they make us," he said, adding that other legislation would be piling up in the senate.

Both Senators La Follette (P-Wis.) and Wiley (R-Wis.) were recorded yesterday against shelving legislation curbing political activities of state employees paid in whole or in part with federal funds.

Approves Fund Bill

Before taking up the Hatch bill today the senate approved and returned to the house for consideration of amendments the first deficiency appropriations bill.

The measure, carrying $92,777,021, was $2,707,882 above the sum approved in the house. The bill provides $60,000,000 for soil conservation payments. That appropriation was included originally in the regular agriculture supply measure for the fiscal year beginning July 1, but later was deleted from that bill and included in the deficiency legislation in order that it might become immediately available.

Boxer, Convicted of Manslaughter, Called 'Dirty Bum' by Judge

New York (P)—A judge whose voice boomed with anger denounced as "a dirty bum" a 24-year-old Canadian boxer who had just been convicted of first-degree manslaughter in the fatal bludgeoning of Dr. Walter R. Engelberg, German consular attaché.

The jury, which had heard counsel for Ernest Kehler contend he beat Dr. Engelberg to death December 5 after the latter made immoral advances in his Brooklyn home, reached its verdict last night in six hours and 14 minutes.

The boxer, who was caught in Toronto two weeks after the killing, stood frowning in defiance as County Judge Peter J. Brancato congratulated the jury for its "absolutely fair" verdict and then asked headily:

"What in thunder made this man kill? Was it I? I doubt it. He is just a cheap bum. Only two men in the world knew what really happened in that room, and one is dead. This man is lucky he was not convicted of a higher degree."

Kehler, who may receive up to 20 years in prison, surly refused to tell the court clerk his age and birthplace before he was returned to his cell for sentencing later.

Survey of Polling Places Indicates Light Primary Vote

A comparatively light vote in the primary election was indicated in a survey of representative wards at noon today.

Officials expected less than 5,000 votes because of the few primaries for aldermanic and supervisory posts and estimated the ballot total would drop because of the inclement weather today.

The highest vote recorded at noon was in the Twelfth ward where more than 100 had balloted. A 4-way aldermanic primary was considered the cause of the heavier vote. In the Eighteenth ward, only 47 persons had cast their ballots.

The Second ward recorded 80 votes, the Eighth ward 63, the Seventeenth ward 46 and the First ward 21.

The vote in the primary election two years ago totaled 5,013.

Seeks Dismissal Of Suits Against Former Officials

Forest County Plaintiff in Action Against Two Men, Bonding Co.

Madison (P)—Attorney Allan Clason, of Green Bay, said today he would petition the supreme court April 12 for a writ of mandamus to compel Circuit Judge Henry Graess to dismiss damage suits against Lester A. Carter, former Forest county treasurer, Leo Samz, former Forest county clerk, and the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company.

Forest county filed suit against the two men and the bonding firm for $30,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained through sale of county bonds to the federal government. Carter and Albert J. Hess, former county supervisor, have been acquitted of criminal charges growing out of the same deal. The damage action was started last fall.

"There is just one question of law that has to be decided," Clason said. "If it is decided in favor of Carter, Samz and the bonding company, it will save considerable time and money. The question is merely this: Has the county board the right to direct its chairman to dismiss a law suit?"

Clason referred to a recent action by which the Forest county board voted to dismiss the suit for a nominal settlement of $1.

Judge Graess held, however, that prosecution of the suit to a judgment is a duty of the chairman of the county board, and that any move by the board to settle must follow completion of the suit.

"We must have a decision on whether or not the county board is greater than the man it elects—its chairman," Clason said. "We can shorten the litigation by having the supreme court settle this one point."

Slayer Escapes, Then Surrenders

Gives Himself Up After Beating Jailer and Fleeing in Indiana

Crawfordsville, Ind. (P)—A young married man accused of the sex killing of a pretty 11-year-old farm girl broke jail here last night, as he had predicted, but surrendered in less than four and a half hours, saying, "I've just come to myself."

Thomas Allen Boys, 28, of Attica, Ind., father of three sons and awaiting trial April 15 on a first-degree murder charge in the death of Elizabeth DeBruecker, told the Montgomery county night jailer Sunday that "tomorrow will be my last day in jail." The keeper thought he was joking.

Later yesterday Harry Anderson, 60-year-old day jailer, was taking Boys back to his second-floor cell from the basement, where the prisoner had bathed.

Suddenly, Anderson said, Boys kicked him in the groin, beat him with a broomstick he had snatched up somewhere and, trampling him, ran downstairs and out the front door. The spring lock had failed to catch.

Soon after 9 o'clock, Boys knocked at the door of Louis Stanford, once assistant postmaster, and said: "Will you please call the police? I've just come to myself."

Senate Commerce Group Asks Elimination of Questions on Income in U. S. 1940 Census

Washington (P)—The senate commerce committee approved, 9 to 7, today a resolution suggesting that questions regarding personal income be deleted from the 1940 census.

The committee approved the proposal, sponsored by Senator Tobey (R-N.H.), after rejecting a milder substitute suggested by Senator Maloney (D-Conn.).

Law Agencies Assailed in Probe Report

Accused of Violating 'Most Fundamental Civil Rights'

WIRE-TAPPING HIT

Senate Committee Criticizes F.B.I. and Its Chief

Washington (P)—The senate interstate commerce committee, charging violations of "the most fundamental civil rights," today accused law-enforcement agencies of having "investigated and catalogued" persons "who have committed no crime but whose economic and political views and activities may be obnoxious to the present incumbents of law-enforcement offices."

The committee recommended that the senate order an inquiry into wire-tapping and sound recording devices, the use of which, it said, "may lead to a variety of oppressions that may never reach the ears of the court."

Such investigative methods, the committee declared, have become "especially dangerous" at present "because of the recent resurgence of a spy system conducted by government police." What government police were meant by this reference, whether federal or state, was not explained.

Criticizes F.B.I.

Its report included comment on the federal bureau of investigation, headed by J. Edgar Hoover, which was made recently by Senator Norris (I-Neb.) in protesting to Attorney General Jackson against arrests made by the G-Men in Detroit in connection with alleged recruiting for the Spanish loyalist army.

The proposed investigation, the committee said, will "provide a constitutional inquest useful to ascertain, in the words of Senator Norris, 'whether the legitimate rights and liberties of any of our people have been frustrated and denied,' and will be useful to prevent activities whether by public or private spy systems which are going to bring into disrepute the methods of our entire system of jurisprudence, and will help to insure that the activities of its officials and officers (are) kept within the bounds of civilized government."

Possible 'Oppressions'

Discussing possible "oppressions" that may result from use of "unethical devices," the committee declared:

"They may, for example, have the effect of increasing the power of law-enforcement agencies to oppress factory employees who are under investigation, not for any crime, and action, but only by reason of their views and activities in regard to labor unions and other economic movements; this is no fanciful case—such investigations are a fact today."

"Wire-tapping and dictographing are not likely to be eschewed by law-enforcement agencies which have, within the last six months, not hesitated to violate the most fundamental civil rights."

"It is no secret that some police have searched private homes without warrants and seized private papers without warrants," the committee report continued. "Some police have held unconvicted persons incommunicado, refusing the request of an arrested person for permission to see a lawyer promptly, privately and before he is questioned by the authorities, refusing to tell him promptly the nature of the charge on which he is being arrested and detained."

Drop Second of Three Charges in Slayings

Milwaukee (P)—The second of three murder charges against Angelo La Mantia, 36, was dropped today, and La Mantia, charged with clearing himself in the third case, waived extradition to Pittsburgh.

The first charge against La Mantia was that he murdered his brother-in-law, Frank Aloisio, here in 1931. La Mantia, missing since the killing, was brought here from Camden, N. J., six weeks ago. The case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Police turned La Mantia over to federal authorities, who held a warrant charging him with a murder in Italy in 1922. The Italian consul here, today notified the United States Commissioner Floyd E. Jenkins that the Italian government had instructed him to drop the case.

Senate Commerce Group Asks Elimination of Questions on Income in U. S. 1940 Census

Washington (P)—The senate commerce committee approved, 9 to 7, today a resolution suggesting that questions regarding personal income be deleted from the 1940 census.

The committee approved the proposal, sponsored by Senator Tobey (R-N.H.), after rejecting a milder substitute suggested by Senator Maloney (D-Conn.).

Tobey's resolution would express "the sense of the senate" that the income questions should not be included in the census. Maloney advocated a resolution suggesting that the census bureau "reconsider" the queries and that it be "authorized" to eliminate them if it thought advisable. Maloney's proposal was defeated, 9 to 8.

Chairman Bailey (D-N.C.) of the commerce committee said he did not know whether the census bureau would eliminate the questions as a result of the committee's action. He asserted the Tobey proposal would be reported to the senate today, and that it then would be a question of gaining consideration for it on the floor.

New London Must Pay $4,760 Claim

Court Awards Damages to Parents of Boy Killed By Live Wire

Madison (P)—The state supreme court ruled today that the city of New London must pay Byron Christian and his wife, Mildred, damages for the death of their son, Byron, Jr.

The 14-year-old boy was killed August 3, 1937, when he picked up a fallen live wire leading from the city's electric plant.

The court's ruling reversed that of Circuit Judge H. J. Severson who set aside a Waupaca county circuit court jury's award of $4,760 and dismissed the Christian's suit. The jury award was approved by the supreme court.

Discussing Judge Severson's ruling that the city was not liable because it was operating in a "governmental rather than a proprietary capacity," the court said:

"The city of New London is operating a plant for the production, transmission and delivery of light and power. The legislature has recognized this activity of a municipality as a public utility. This activity places the municipality in the commercial field. We find no distinction between a utility owned by a corporation, company, or individual, and one owned by a village or city which would exempt it from being classified as a proprietary affair."

The court also held the fact that the fallen wire was part of the city's lighting system did not exempt it from liability.

"To make recovery from an injury dependent upon which wire happened to fall would be to ignore the true relation of the utility to the public, and to overlook the rather obvious fact that the hazard of the business in which the city is engaged is the same, as far as the individual plaintiff is concerned, no matter who owns the utility."

Supreme Court Won't Review Its Decision Against Bingo Games

Madison (P)—The supreme court refused today to review its recent decision outlawing bingo games.

The court refused to rehear a request by Attorney Max Raskin, of Milwaukee, on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Zrimsek, of Milwaukee.

In January the court ruled unanimously that bingo was a gambling game and could be outlawed under the public nuisance statute. At that time the court said the argument that bingo was legal when played for patriotic or charitable purposes was "obviously without merit."

Ribbentrop and Mussolini Discuss Welles Peace Trip During Rome Conferences

Rome (P)—Sumner Welles' European trip today was ranked by the authoritative fascist commentator, Virginio Gayda, as foremost among the topics discussed by Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop in their conferences of the last two days.

Gayda, writing in Il Giornale d'Italia, also supported the general belief that Von Ribbentrop had talked about relations between Italy and Russia, saying that "the inexplicable hostile attitude taken by Soviet Russia (toward Italy) now has been somewhat rectified."

Foreign observers had conjectured that the German foreign minister, who also conferred with Pope Pius XII, would seek to bring Rome and Moscow closer politically because of the existence of the German-Soviet pact.

Other fascist newspapers linked Welles' European tour with the proposal by Senator Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, for a 30-day truce in Europe.

(In a speech Saturday Senator Pittman suggested an armistice so there could be "calm discussion" by the belligerents looking toward permanent peace.)

Italy Stays Out

Having given Mussolini an outline of Adolf Hitler's intentions, Von Ribbentrop is returning to Berlin with word that Italy will stay out of war as long as Mussolini considers it advantageous, some informed sources said.

Noting reports that Von Ribbentrop's two days of conferences here might have been to "question and persuade Italy and its chief," Il Telegrafo of Leghorn, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper, declared:

"Neither Italy nor il duce is influenceable. When il duce thinks of changing the attitude assumed last September, he will do it on the basis of absolutely his own evaluation of events."

Watchman at Racine Leaves $60,000 Estate

Racine (P)—Julius K. Hansen, 65, for many years a watchman for the Horlick Malted Milk company and William Horlick, Jr., left an estate of $60,000, it was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed in probate court.

Hansen, found dead March 1, left no relatives. He directed that the bulk of the estate be placed in trust, and $100 a month be given to Mr. and Mrs. Anton Matson, with whom he had lived. After their death the income goes to a Matson niece, Marion Jensen of Kenosha.

50,000 French, British Troops May Help Finns

French Premier Says They are Ready to Respond to Public Appeal

Paris (P)—Premier Daladier told the chamber of deputies today that 50,000 French and British troops were ready to go to Finland if Finland publicly asked for help against Soviet Russia.

These troops, the premier said, have been ready since Feb. 26—equipped and assembled near embarkation points.

Daladier said the British-French decision to aid Finland in case she called for help was reached at the meeting of the supreme war council Feb. 2.

At the premier's request the deputies postponed their scheduled interpellation of the Finnish situation until March 19.

"The government is at the disposition of the chamber," Daladier said, "but the Finnish parliament is assembled to discuss the peace propositions that Russia wants to impose on its (the Finnish parliament's) country."

Confers With Minister

"It seems to me therefore wiser if parliament adjourns this debate," Daladier, who conferred earlier in the day with the Finnish minister, Dr. Harri Holma, declared he expected at any moment to receive from the Finnish government a communication "in one sense or the other."

The premier said Great Britain would transport the troops to Finland if the Finns asked for direct aid.

Overriding one deputy's protest that Finland has asked aid, Daladier said:

"There never has been a direct public appeal from Finland, neither to France nor to England."

"Why is this Finnish appeal necessary? Because the Norwegian and Swedish governments oppose with Turn to page 10 col. 5

Barber's Customer Changes Course of Things at Waukegan

Waukegan, Ill. (P)—A number of union barbers assembled outside the little two-chair shop of Ben Powell in downtown Waukegan today.

They came to convince Powell he should hike his 50-cent haircut rate up to theirs of 60 cents for weekdays and 75 on Saturdays.

When about 50 had massed on the sidewalk, they decided a spokesman should be sent in. But leaders felt that since Powell was busy with a customer the polite thing would be to wait.

Finally he finished snipping at hair and patted the patron's neck with the soft white brush. The spokesman prepared to enter.

Many Conflicting Reports but Peace Believed Near

RED ARMY GAINS

British Dispatch Says Delegates Empowered to Sign Pact

Helsinki (P)—A Finnish official said tonight that parliament, which must pass on any terms of peace with Soviet Russia, had not taken any action up to early this evening. It was indicated that a secret session of parliament would be held later tonight or tomorrow.

Officials, however, would not comment on this possibility.

The most common opinion among informed observers here was that some kind of honorable peace was in the immediate offing.

Exchange telegraph—British news agency reported today at London in a Stockholm dispatch that the Finnish delegation in Moscow had been authorized to sign a peace treaty.

The dispatch quoted informed Stockholm sources as saying that the treaty would be signed tomorrow, the terms would be published then and at the same time hostilities would cease.

An official announcement was expected tonight or tomorrow to clarify the status of the 104-day-old war in the north.

Amid a welter of rumors of peace, truces and new negotiations the only solid realistic developments were the short air-raid alarm at 4 p. m. (8 a. m. C.S.T.) and a high command communique which said the Russians had made new gains on the Viipuri front but lost 15 planes.

Russians Advance

It admitted that the red army, pressing further along Viipuri bay, was continuing its advances despite the peace negotiations going on in Moscow.

Talk on the streets, in restaurants and in bomb shelters during the air-raid alarm was inevitably concerned with the question of peace or war.

(Ninety words were taken out of this dispatch at this point by the censor.)

In the midst of all the talk of peace, workmen went right ahead hammering protective screens around statues in the parks and against bomb shelters.

There was much interest in Helsinki over British Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration that Great Britain and France were ready to aid Finland with "all available" resources.

Newspaper's Comment

A Helsinki newspaper, Svenska Pressen, presented this as the attitude of Finns:

"The peace negotiations are not exciting us. The fact that hostilities are not interrupted while they are going on tells us much about the character of the negotiations."

Bank Commission Loses Battle to Collect $583,000

Supreme Court Upholds Lower Tribunal in Milwaukee Case

Madison—(P)—The state banking commission lost in supreme court today in its attempt to collect $583,000 from the First Wisconsin National bank of Milwaukee for the benefit of creditor of the defunct Liberty State bank of Milwaukee which closed July 18, 1932.

The tribunal affirmed the Milwaukee county circuit court which dismissed the commission suit against the First National.

The commission claimed that the First National had made loans to the Liberty States in advance of bank call days for the purpose of concealing the true condition of the Liberty State and preventing its liquidation.

The supreme court, in an exhaustive opinion written by Justice John D. Wickham, absolved First National of any part in promoting or instigating the alleged "window dressing" scheme used by J. J. Rosenberg, former president of Liberty, who subsequently served a prison term for violation of the banking laws.

Justice Wickham devoted 59 pages to the decision which recognized the case as a "complicated and difficult one."

The suit involved five loans made to Liberty in advance of call dates and secured by repurchase agreements.

The supreme court said the state, in the first instance, relied entirely upon the testimony of Rosenberg to show that First National was the "moving spirit" in a plan to keep Liberty open.

It said at the close of the case the state, itself, repudiated Rosenberg as a witness, that the trial court was justified in considering his testimony as unworthy of belief and that the commission therefore had to rely on the testimony of other executives of the two banks.

The decision found that officers of First National knew the loans to Liberty were made on a temporary basis in advance of call dates and were for the purpose of reducing Liberty's "bills payable" account, but it cited numerous factors to show there was no illegal participation by First National.

That, precisely, was what three of them did, and the others promised to continue their steady patronage and submit menu hints.

Dane County Civil Service Advocates Push Test Case

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison, Wis.—State-wide interest is being given a court case here under a 1938 statute designed to introduce the civil service system into county government employment. In spite of a ruling by John E. Martin, attorney general, that the new law is unconstitutional, local civil service advocates have started a court action to compel the Dane county board to act under it on the civil service question.

The 1939 legislature provided that a civil service ordinance could be initiated in a popular referendum, and that upon the submission of the ordinance draft with a required number of signatures, the county board must either adopt it as drafted, or put it to a popular vote at the next succeeding election.

A civil service ordinance petition has already been put before the Dane county board by local residents, but the board has refused to act on the ground of the attorney general's ruling that the new law is invalid.

A local civil service league retained Fred M. Riser, Dane county senator and author of the 1939 law, to obtain a writ in the court of Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis compelling the board to act on the referendum in time to put the issue on the ballot at the April 2 election.

The attorney general, and District Attorney Norris Maloney of Dane county base their arguments against the validity of the Riser law on a 1916 case in the supreme court in which the court ruled that the state legislature cannot delegate to the people legislative power affecting county government.

In the arguments on the writ, Judge Reis interrupted to remark that the supreme court ruling was "stupid," but that he could not overrule the supreme court. "The people ought to have the right to make the laws," the judge observes. "The question is do they have the right under the law?"

Circuit Judge Has Heavy Calendar for March Term in County

Pleads Innocent Of Armed Robbery

Pulaski Man Faces Charge Of Burglarizing Safe In Tavern

Port Washington—(P)—Clarence Usiak, 38, of Pulaski, Wis., pleaded innocent late yesterday when arraigned before Justice of The Peace Harold Hughes on a charge of armed robbery.

Bond was set at $10,000 and a preliminary hearing was set for next Wednesday.

The charge was based on the burglary of a safe containing $1800 belonging to Leo W. O'Leary, O'Leary county farmer and tavern keeper. Authorities broadened their hunt for Ross Stevens, 40, of Shawano, charged with armed robbery and burglary in the same case. Deputy Sheriff Ben Runkel, Jr., said that Stevens is a former inmate of Wisconsin state prison and sometimes used the name Charles Foster.

Earl Sears, 42, of Gresham, Wis., also was charged with participation in the Weiler burglary last Aug. 27. Under $10,000 bond, he waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to county court. A fourth man was released yesterday after questioning.

Usiak and Sears also are charged with burglary of a safe containing $3,500 taken from the home of John Fischer of Gresham last Sept. 27.

Harry Taylor of Green Bay, arrested at Tripoli, Wis., on a charge of burglary in the Fischer case, was arraigned before Commissioner C. B. Dillett at Shawano and bond was set at $3,000. A preliminary hearing was dated for March 20.

Rhineland High Takes First Game

Madison—(P)—The high scoring Rhineland Hodogs defeated Delavan 46 to 29 in the first round of the W.I.A.A. basketball tournament today.

Raymond Warren, Hodog center, rang up 21 points to lead the scoring for both teams while Raymond Jordan was high man for Delavan with 12.

Delavan pushed Rhineland for six minutes of the second half, piling up eight points before the Hodogs could connect, but there was never any doubt as to ultimate winner. Delavan trailed at the half 29 to 11.

Madison—(P)—Platteville High school opened the 25th annual W.I.A.A. basketball tournament here today with a 32 to 28 victory over Beloit, after stemming a second half Beloit rally.

U. S. Has Developed "Bullet Proof" Gas Tank for Airplanes

Washington—(P)—A new "bullet proof" fuel tank—potentially more effective than the much publicized devices used in the air fleets of warring Europe—has been developed by the army and navy for American military planes.

Details are confidential, the War department said today, but authoritative sources indicated that the new tank, like those reported in use by Germany, France and England, depended on raw rubber to close bullet holes.

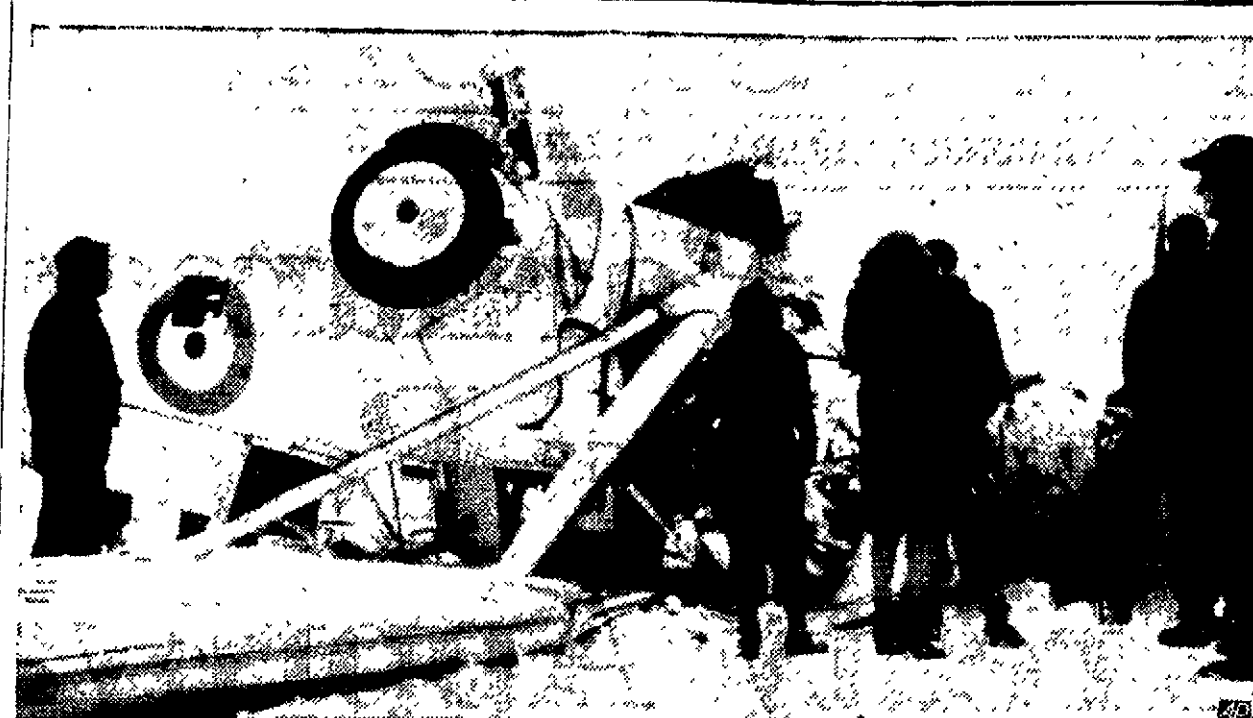

Differences are the combination of the sticky and elastic raw rubber with other materials, such as metal, fibre and vulcanized rubber.

New Hampshire At Polls Today

Well-Organized Slate Opposed to Roosevelt Re-Nomination

Manchester, N. H.—(P)—A handful of candidates—split in their choice of a Democratic standard-bearer—bucked a strong and well-organized slate of delegates pledged to President Roosevelt's re-nomination today in the nation's first primary ballot-box test of the third-term issue.

Robert H. Sanderson, minority leader in the New Hampshire house last year and treasurer of the Democratic state committee, who ran as an unpledged candidate for delegate-at-large, appeared to have the strongest chance of breaking through the Roosevelt lineup.

Personally popular and perhaps the widest-known of the independent candidates, he emerged from retirement to campaign against a third term, asserting the ideals of the founding fathers included "changing laws to meet changing conditions, but no perpetuation of power in any one man's hands."

A complete slate of Roosevelt-pledged candidates, including many of the party's leaders, faced opposition from three unpledged candidates, three supporters of Postmaster General James A. Farley, and one candidate endorsing Vice President John N. Garner.

In all, 23 Democrats—16 of them pledged to the president—contested for the 12 convention posts. The Roosevelt forces were assured of five places.

In a contest of personalities rather than issues, eight Republicans vied for four places as delegates at large, most of them in accord with Senator Styles Bridges' aspirations for the G. O. P. presidential nomination but, with a single exception, running unpledged. The one exception was pledged to Thomas E. Dewey.

Mayor Hoan Has Seven Opponents for Office In Milwaukee Primary

Milwaukee—(P)—Milwaukee citizens went to the polls today to nominate candidates for city offices, with interest centering about the mayoral primary in which Daniel W. Hoan, mayor for 24 years, had seven opponents.

Of further interest was the race for city treasurer, in which incumbent Joseph J. Krueger was opposed by Theodore Damann, former secretary of state, and Harold V. Schoenecker, former state senator.

Hoan, backed by the Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation, generally was conceded one of the two places on the ballot for the mayoralty in the regular election next month.

His opponents are Earl D. Lillydahl, real estate man and attorney; Carl F. Ziedler, former assistant city attorney; Frank J. Schultz, former coroner; Frank Selz, Richard F. Lehmann, Otto R. Werkmeister and Fred Bassett Blair, perennial Communist candidate for state and municipal offices.

Politicians Watching for Better Business Conditions

Washington—(P)—Mindful of the vote-turning effect that business conditions have in an election year, politicians are watching anxiously for the end of the post-Christmas decline.

The first flush of the war buying is gone. Customers who feared slow deliveries and price rises are taking their time about buying. New orders in most industries are smaller than those now being filled. In some cases they have dropped below consumption requirements.

A few of the pertinent signs caught by Washington statisticians: Automobile sales are in many cases from 35 to 50 per cent larger than at this time last year. Steel production, skidding to about 65 per cent of capacity is falling under actual requirements for use. Textiles are dropping. But private building is improving.

War has lifted the export business. As many or more goods were shipped in December and January than at any time since 1930. Great Britain and France were the chief buyers, but the lessened competition spread the pick-up in American sales to all corners of the world. Great Britain is trying to remedy that now. Aircraft, machinery, metals and metal products, chemicals and raw cotton accounted for most of the gains.

A billion dollars in new war orders seems likely to be placed by the British and French purchasing commissions. Experts say this will give fresh impetus not only to the rapidly-expanding airplane industries but also to parts and tool makers.

Democratic Party To Issue Souvenir Book, Farley Says

Chairman Replies to Hamilton's Criticisms of Practice

Washington—(P)—The Democratic party will issue another convention souvenir book at Chicago this year, regardless of Republican opinions on the subject.

Chairman James A. Farley made the point clear in dismissing criticism by Republican Chairman John Hamilton, who announced that the Republicans would not issue such a volume because they consider it a device to circumvent the corrupt practices law.

Replying to Hamilton last night, Farley criticized what he called the "much easier and more effective" method in which Republicans raise funds.

"They merely levy on a selected list of very rich men for whatever they require," he said. "The last report of Mr. Hamilton's outfit seems to have established a $4,000-a-piece rate. Unfortunately the Democratic party has no favors to sell."

"It must be admitted that a $4,000 draft is cheap to pay for such enactments as the Smoot-Hawley tariff, for example. Doubtless, if the Democrats were in that sort of a market, they could offer comparable bargains."

Johns Asserts Coal Dealers 'Uncertain' Over Price Schedules

Washington—(P)—Representative Johns (R-Wis.) told the house that price-fixing preliminaries of the bituminous coal commission had placed many Wisconsin coal dealers in a position of "uncertainty."

He expressed fear that the first prices fixed would become obsolete before all schedules are completed. The coal dealers, Johns reported, would like to make contract to buy coal but do not know whether prices to be fixed will be reasonable and permit them to deal safely.

Johns recalled that in 1906 the elder Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin asked to have railroads valued as a basis for fixing freight and passenger rates.

"I remember when that started out," Johns declared. "The senator said it would cost about $5,000,000, that they would get the value very soon, and we would then know just what to do in fixing rates."

"It took 20 years before they were valued. Instead of costing $5,000,000, it cost about $25,000,000. And by the time they got the railroads valued, of course, the valuation was no good because conditions had changed so that they were of no value."

Ski Slide at Pierce Park Nearly Finished

The ski slide under construction at Pierce park is about 97 per cent completed and will be ready for the ski season next winter, according to Matt Rasmussen, WPA supervisor in charge of the work.

The slide is about 40 feet high and overlooks the ravine at the south end of Pierce park. It is estimated that jumps of 50 feet or better will be possible when the snow is right. The slide is being built under a WPA project sponsored by the park board.

Six Girls' Cage Teams In Intramural Tournament

Six girls' basketball teams are participating in a round-robin cage tournament at Roosevelt Junior High school under the direction of Miss Jane Overby, physical education instructor. Thou dost in any way break up the order of our own lives, but make our furrowed souls fruitful. Amen

Lenten Thought For Today

Tuesday, March 12. . . thou settest the furrows thereof: thou makest it soft with showers: thou blessest the springing thereof. Read Psalm 65: 9-13.

Surely the palmist had been walking through little fields in early Palestinian spring when he made this song about the meaning and promise of a furrow.

These brown lines now beginning to be drawn across our own land have many things to teach us. They are upsetting enough, tear up old root growths, disturb things as they are for the sake of things as they ought to be. Mother Earth protests our ploughing — gently — but there is no harvest without the plough-share.

Neither in the soil nor in the soul. God has many ways to plough a soul. Crusted habits need to be broken up, old useless growths of mind and spirit turned under, new powers of response to high appeal secured. His plough-shares are change, challenge, new occasions; sometimes even sorrow and disaster. Furrows may be the happy toil or the day's work, a nation's tragedy or a soul's travail, but they are the price of the harvest and the test of any time is what furrows it plows — and how it seeds them.

Prayer: Lord of Field and Soul, we praise Thee for the promise of ploughed lands and spirits softly open to love and goodness and the future's promise. Hasten the day when the plough-share shall supplant the sword. Forgive us fields furrowed by war and sown with death. Deal with us gently as

Americans Like Allies but Hate Being Pushed Around

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—The British public apparently wonders why, when we in America are so opposed to Germany, we should be irritated over British blockade activities which are designed to bring Hitler to his knees. The editor of the London Sunday Dispatch, which is connected with the Daily Mail, has asked some of us in the United States to explain that seeming inconsistency.

Clapper

My reply, cabled for publication, was as follows:

"During the last two months I have traveled to the Pacific coast and through the south and middle west. Everywhere I found the strongest sympathy for the Allied cause. In the heart of Texas a few weeks ago a group of representative citizens told me that if it were apparent that the Allies were in danger of defeat, American sentiment would, in their judgment, support some kind of naval assistance. As the situation stands today sentiment opposes direct intervention, but it recognizes that defeat of Germany is highly desirable so far as our interests are concerned."

"In protesting against certain features of contraband controls, our state department was seeking, I think, to keep the record straight. In this it undoubtedly had the support of American public opinion, but largely for the same reason.

"Our government and our people alike recognize that Great Britain is fighting for its life and that the blockade is a major weapon. We understand that Great Britain must use this weapon. All we are asking, I think, is that in using the blockade Great Britain be as considerate as possible of American sensibilities. We do not like to have our merchant ships detained unduly, or bailed into belligerent waters where our neutrality act forbids them to go. We do not like to see armed landing parties seize mail from our air-line pilots. In such matters we have the same sensibilities as Britons. Furthermore we are striving to preserve respect for our rights in the Far East and such incidents do not help us in that delicate situation.

U. S. Can Be Persuaded Where Force Won't Work

"Our people, I believe, are fully disposed to co-operate in enabling Great Britain to make her blockade effective. We only complain of being pushed around too roughly in the process. We can be persuaded to do many things that we cannot be forced to do."

Some may disagree with the foregoing but it reflects, as best I can size it up, the American attitude today.

England and France have a joint mission here now to discuss these irritations, believing that this procedure of face-to-face conversation will be more fruitful of results than protracted note-writing between Washington and London.

In the previous war there were many irritations arising from the British blockade. They led to a long series of notes of rising temper, and to mounting public indignation here against Great Britain, which was overcome only by the fact that the Germans outdid Great Britain. The loss of American life in the submarine warfare was vastly more infuriating than British trade interference.

Now in Contact Only With British Blockade

But in this war, thanks largely to the neutrality act, we are not exposed to submarine warfare. Consequently we come in contact only with the British blockade and it

Papers Filed in Suit For Relief From New Trade Practice Act

Milwaukee—(P)—Benjamin Galin, counsel for the Wisconsin Beauty Shop Owners association, announced Monday that papers in a suit for declaratory relief from the new state trade practice act had been served on Attorney General John Martin at Madison and District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes.

Galín said that the complaint, which is to be filed in circuit court here Wednesday, charges that the law and the codes promulgated under it are unconstitutional and discriminatory, and "deny the equal protection of the law."

The complaint is based on provisions of the law which exempt communities with populations of less than 5,200 and counties of less than 30,000, Galín disclosed.

The barbers' code, which fixes service and work conditions, is being enforced in Milwaukee and some other state cities. Enforcement of the cleaners and dyers' code has been held up here and in a few other points until after the middle of March, but is being enforced in some cities of more than 5,200.

The beauty parlor and shoe repairers code are due to take effect before the end of March.

Grog, sailor's term for rum and water, was so called from the grogram breeches worn by Edward Vernon, an English admiral.

This is one of the questions to be pressed upon the Allied mission now in Washington.

Americans Willing to Gamble On Loans to Fighting Finns

By Institute of Public Opinion Princeton, N. J.—A fortnight ago, by the decision of Congress, a way was opened for Finland to borrow $20,000,000 from the U. S. government for food and non-military supplies. The next step for Finnish aid, many observers believe, will be a request by Finland to float ordinary commercial loans in the United States with private companies.

Even though many Americans still remember the ill-fated loans which were made to other European countries in the last war, a nationwide Institute survey shows that a majority of Americans would look with approval on a Finnish appeal for such commercial loans.

The dimensions of pro-Finnish sentiment in the United States are indicated by the vote on the question which the Institute put to a cross-section of men and women in each state:

YES	NO	72%	28%
As was pointed out on the floor of the Senate last month, commercial loans to Finland would probably never be repaid if the Finns should lose. Nevertheless, the Senate passed the resolution of Senator Harrison (Dem., Miss.), which put the Senate on record in favor of such loans, by a vote of 85 to 3. Senators pointed out that even though the bonds might never be repaid many Americans would doubtless be glad to contribute in this way to the cause of a small nation with whose fight they sympathize. The Institute has previously found

Badger Primary May Show Trend In Lake States

Illinois Voters Will Select
Delegates Week Later
Than Wisconsin

BY E. L. ALMEN
Chicago—(AP)—Two presidential preference primaries next month will furnish a tip on political trends in an area rich in electoral votes—the populous midwest lake states.

The five states in the region—Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan—have a population in excess of 25,000,000 and control 100 votes in the electoral column.

The sector is well-supplied with presidential aspirants. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio are candidates for the Republican nomination. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana is prepared to make an active bid for the Democratic nomination if President Roosevelt doesn't want it.

Contests for convention delegates in both major parties are assured in Wisconsin and Illinois. The results are expected to gauge sentiment not only in those states but also in the neighboring ones. All are similar economically, having highly industrialized regions as well as extensive farming territory.

Wisconsin Primary
Wisconsin will pick 24 delegates in its April 2 primary. A week later Illinois will choose 38 delegates, one of the largest blocs in the nation. Ohio's primary comes on May 14. Indiana and Michigan choose delegates at state conventions.

The Wisconsin primary, binding on delegates, will test the relative strength of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner in the Democratic ranks, and of Senator Vandenberg and Thomas E. Dewey of New York on the Republican ticket. Governor Julius P. Heil, a Republican, personally favors an uncommitted delegation.

The Progressive party has no presidential candidate in Wisconsin, and its lone senator, Robert M. La Follette, is reported to have adopted a "hands-off" policy on the presidential race.

Dewey is unopposed in the Illinois Republican primary April 9, but Roosevelt and Garner forces are scrambling for delegates. Garfield, Garner submitted a certificate of candidacy, but President Roosevelt's name was entered by the Chicago Democratic organization headed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committeeman Patrick A. Nash.

Roosevelt Silent
As in the Wisconsin primary, Mr. Roosevelt made no comment about the submission of his name in Illinois.

Illinois delegates are not bound by the primary, but Mayor Kelly has said that the delegation would be President Roosevelt's as long as he wished. Governor Henry Horner has waged bitter battles with the mayor's group in recent campaigns, but they now are united behind Roosevelt and a state party office. Garner's supporters have pledged a fierce fight on the third-term issue.

Senator Taft will have Ohio's 52 Republican convention votes. Governor John W. Bricker remains a "dark horse" candidate for the Republican nomination and an heir to the delegation in the event of Taft's withdrawal or elimination.

Donahy To Retire
Ohio Democrats are expected to send delegates pledged to National Committeeman Charles Sawyer as a "favorite son" candidate but available for President Roosevelt if the latter seeks the nomination.

Senator Vic Donahy's recent decision to retire deprived the party of an outstanding vote-getter.

Senator Vandenberg currently occupies the favorite position among Michigan Republicans, although strong Dewey sentiment exists. The senator's friends are seeking backing for him in two roles—presidential aspirant and candidate for re-nomination. Leaders in several Democratic camps have agreed to go

Thieves Play Major Roles in Dizzy Doings of Last Week

BY GLADWIN HILL
New York—(AP)—The ancient and dishonorable institution of larceny, both grand and petty, has fallen upon balmy days. Last week everything got pillaged.

A burglar broke into a Memphis radio announcer's home and ran off with two packs of cards and a Bible.

An automobile burglar in Salt Lake City discovered—too late—that his loot was $60 worth of vitamins for undernourished foxes.

A thief who broke into an explorer's car in Hollywood drew for his prize the mummified head of an Ecuadorian Indian.

An 81-year-old San Pedro, Calif., man foiled a holdup man by nonchalantly diving into the bay.

A Pittsburgh clothing store was held up for the third time in three months—by the same bandit. "It's got so," the proprietor lamented, "that when this guy comes in he doesn't need to say anything—he just pulls the gun, and we give him the dough."

Another Pittsburgh storekeeper came out of a holdup 3 cents ahead. He yelled and the bandits scrambled so fast they left a nickel on the counter.

The law breakers had plenty of competition in the dizzy doings derby.

A Toledo man, enroute to collect a safe driving prize, was arrested for speeding. . . . British censorship was disrupted by a momentary shortage of blue pencils. . . . A Pittsburgh hitch-hiker spurned a lift from a car with a radio.

When three students moved away from a Racker, Mo., school, it left a student body of one.

Two policemen called to catch two prowlers in a Los Angeles church discovered that they were—two other policemen.

A BIG FUTURE
Pueblo, Colo.—(AP)—Come 1936 this little miss should turn out to be somebody's blonde and efficient secretary.

"Is Mr. V—at home," said a newspaper reporter who called the house and got the five-year-old child.

"No thank you," said she, partly. "He's at a meeting. Mother's in her bath and I'm busy. So good-bye now."

Start Building of Home Show Booths At Armory Tonight

Annual Exhibition Will Run Thursday, Friday,
And Saturday

Construction of booths for the Knights of Pythias Better Housing and Home Show will start this evening at Armory D.

Exhibitors are expected to move in their products tomorrow, preparatory for opening of the show Thursday afternoon. More than 50 sponsors and exhibitors will appear at the armory during the 3-day exhibition.

The show will run Thursday and evenings on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Afternoon hours will be from 2 o'clock until 5:30 and evening hours from 7 o'clock until 10:30.

The greatest collection of booths in the 6-year history of the home show will be seen at the armory. Displays and demonstrations of building materials and methods and home furnishings and equipment will feature the Better Housing and Home Show, which each year fires interest in the construction of new residences and the remodeling of present homes.

Promotion of better home life in Appleton and vicinity and assurance of beauty and comfort in residences are purposes which the Knights of Pythias have in mind in sponsoring the exhibition.

The armory will be appropriately decorated for the 3-day event, at which musical entertainment will be presented. The committee, headed by Earl Ballard, has announced that Company D of the 127th infantry will hold "surprise parties" in the basement on each of the three evenings.

ON MIDWEEK BILL AT RIO

James Stewart, Margaret Sullivan and the famed "Ernst Lubitsch touch" contribute equal shares to one of the most delightful entertainments ever filmed, "The Shop Around the Corner," screen attraction at the Rio theater on Wednesday and Thursday.

"City of Chance," with Lynn Bari, C. Aubrey Smith, and Donald Woods in the leading roles, is the added feature on the same program.

church, Stevens Point, will be the guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Johnson will attend a sportsmen's show in Minneapolis on March 31 sponsored by Jimmie Robinson, editor of "Sports-field."

WINE FROM THE GRAPES OF WRATH

To F. A. Countway, head of Lever Brothers, soap manufacturers, went the dubious distinction of paying the country's highest salary income tax last year. Mr. Countway's salary was $469,713.00. Out of this he paid Federal income taxes of $285,000.00 and State income taxes of $37,000.00, a total of $322,000.00, leaving him a net income of $147,000.00 out of which he must still pay real estate taxes on his home and sales taxes on everything he buys.

It is to be noted that income taxes alone took from his salary twice as much as he got for himself.

Short sighted men may content themselves with saying that he certainly had enough left to live upon. They are so short sighted they do not even see the soap in the wash room else they would realize they contributed to what Mr. Countway had for himself and the larger sum which the government took from its people in this indirect way because it lacked enough spunk to ask them directly for the money to pay its way.

But the Atlantic Refining Company was not as fortunate as the soap manufacturers. Not all industries are in a position to pass heavy tolls upon them on to the public, although all, naturally, hope and expect to do so when they can.

The Atlantic Refining Company operated last year at a loss of $524,000.00 according to a recently released statement. This statement also points out:

"Taxes paid (excluding direct sales and excise taxes) have increased from $1,601,007.00, in 1930 to $5,552,648.00 paid in 1939. The increase during this interval is equivalent to 247%."

"Moreover, an additional $26,476,853 was collected from customers and paid to taxing authorities on account of sales and excise taxes. It is often said, and more often implied, that customer-paid taxes are no concern of the company."

"On the contrary, they are a serious concern of this company, and all the other sellers of goods and services because of the direct and devastating effect which they have on the spending power and patronage of our customers. Their sinister influence upon the whole economy is growing and the end is not in sight."

This company puts emphasis on two propositions which we all should realize and which the company knows from experience. The more than 26 millions which this company picked up from the people on its sales and turned over to the government would have been a very fine piece of business if plowed into the local merchandising field instead of being sent off to the Capital to keep the Praetorian Army in good humor. Besides, so long as the government keeps increasing sales taxes on gas and oils, just so long are distributing companies prevented from charging sufficient to cover the enormously increased demands of the government upon them.

Here was a case where a company not only had to find about 4 million dollars more to pay its own taxes but also learned that the government was making it collect an additional 26 millions from its customers thus impairing its chance of getting enough to even keep its head above water.

Bruce Barton, whose sane disposition and bright mind have been responsible for leading many to think correctly, sent out a questionnaire to a group of "typical medium-class business men" whose incomes ranged from $6,000.00 to $40,000.00 a year.

Mr. Barton wanted to know what these men would do if the proposed 10 per cent additional increase in their income taxes were voted to finance "economic defense."

Mr. Barton found a number of very interesting answers. Some of them are here listed:

- (1) Would get along with less household help.
- (2) Would postpone property repairs.
- (3) Must abandon plans to re-furnish home with electrical refrigerators, new furniture and other appliances.
- (4) Must postpone purchase of a new car.
- (5) Must cut amount spent for wearing apparel and contributions to help others.
- (6) Would eliminate entertainment in theaters, restaurants, hotels and the home.

It all seems quite a jolly thing to all of us to increase the income taxes on someone else until we find by a little reflection and investigation how this national suicide is affecting each one. It should be evident by now, — in our 10 million unemployed after 7 years of spending ourselves rich,—that every time the government steps in and interferes with each individual's normally earned income, although it may employ the money specifically to help some, it is very definitely taking that money away from others in the community where the earner resides, even though such residents do not always realize it.

Even the money that goes to relief, when the proportion becomes heavy, instead of helping relievers back to work, tends to constantly put more people on relief by taking away from each community the fun is that are that communities' natural means of business activity, and therefore of prosperity.

No wonder the purple faced Praetorian Army anxiously surveys the horizon. If it loses Mr. Roosevelt its entire existence may be jeopardized.

For this Army consists of 300,000 well trained employees who average nearly $400.00 each per month and whose duties are to speak, write, sing, act, march, anything, to make it appear that the administration is a glowing success even in the face of its economic collapse.

On the recently celebrated seventh anniversary of the President's inauguration some dour faced newspapers, actually printed his promise "on my word of honor" to reduce government expenses by 25 per cent.

The Praetorian Army itself is costing the people of these United States nearly $1,500,000,000 yearly.

Kermit Roosevelt stated from England, upon his appointment to lead the English volunteers in Finland, that his father, President Theodore Roosevelt, always thought the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" should have been America's national anthem.

Probably Kermit was referring to that part of the hymn which reads: "Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord. He is tramping out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored."

Our grapes of wrath today consist of broken promises and light headed economic attitudes.

And grapes of this sort ferment into a poisonous and repellant vintage, the drinking of which never helped digest a meal or gave a man the fine warmth of contentment.

CLIPPING OUR WINGS

Among the federal agencies which is feeling the effects of the budget shears in Washington is the Civil Aeronautics Authority. The office of the budget director has snipped some $8,000,000 from the original requests of the CAA, which were not much above those of a year ago notwithstanding the expansion of civilian flying. The house cut off another $1,020,930 and the senate sheared $178,639 more.

Several other reductions are still before the senate-house conference committee including $133,930 from administration expenses, $113,000 from the safety program, $1,000,000 from the pilot training schedule and $50,000 from the money allotted to regulation.

No one will deny that the time has come for a reduction in government expenditures. The proposition has general endorsement. Where differences of opinion arise is in the question of where the cuts should be made.

Obviously economies can be applied to some agencies with much less hardship than when applied to other agencies. In the case of the CAA, consideration should be given not only to its record of past achievements but also to the opportunity now within the reach of this country as the result of unsettled conditions abroad. Never before in the history of flying has the United States had a better chance to establish itself in the front in the development of civilian aviation. And there is general agreement that this country should establish itself as a leader in all branches of aviation.

Civilian aviation is a large contributor to national defense. By developing it, we are creating a vast reserve to draw upon in times of national emergency. Costs and the rapidity with which fighting planes become outmoded prevent the creation of an air force now of sufficient size for war purposes. The need can be met through the development of civilian aviation, a fact which suggests caution in reducing appropriations for the CAA.

MORE THAN A GESTURE

Last week a new law was promulgated in Italy which forbade Jewish physicians, lawyers, pharmacists and auditors from practicing their professions excepting among Jews, while journalists, engineers, architects and university professors were banned from practicing their professions at all.

On the very day that this flaming piece of intolerance was put into effect His Holiness, Pope Pius XII, appointed a Jewish professor named Almagia, to restore ancient maps in the Vatican.

Fascist papers spoke of the appointment "as a mere gesture." They are much mistaken.

It is true that the job didn't amount to much and might perhaps, have been dispensed with. But when the head of any great organization departs from his accustomed path in order to put the stamp of his sharp disapproval upon the spread of fanaticism his act is packed with substance and is quite likely to breed a continuing flow of that rich milk of human decency called tolerance.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW FEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—Keep your eye on Jim Farley in the turbulent Democratic presidential primary in Ohio.

He's not saying anything about it, but at the last minute (March 14) he's going to file a "Roosevelt slate" of his own. The regular state Democratic organization has entered a ticket of third-term delegates headed by Chairman Charles Sawyer. Farley's slate nominally will also be for the president, but it will take orders from Jim and not from the White House. In other words, it will be anti-third term.

Farley's Ohio maneuver is one of the most significant political developments in months. It means that he has definitely cast his lot with the anti-third term faction.

Publicly, Jim has ducked all questions on this issue. In entering the Ohio melee with a slate of his own, in direct opposition to a state organization which acted on secret White House instructions, he will not only declare himself but will openly throw down the gauntlet to his "Chief."

The outcome of the Ohio fight is certain to have far reaching effect on Roosevelt's plans. If the Sawyer ticket wins, the third-termers will be greatly strengthened. If Farley scores, it will be a stunning blow to them.

JUGGLE TWO JOBS

Friends of dapper Stewart McDonald are wondering just how long he will be able to continue his present juggling act of keeping two balls in the air at one time. "Stew" is head of the Federal Housing administration and simultaneously chairman of the board of the Maryland Casualty company.

He was given the latter job by his close friend Jesse Jones, after the RFC bailed out the Maryland Casualty company. Technically, McDonald was put in this key post in order to protect the government's interests.

However, for him simultaneously to hold the major job of federal housing administrator is unique in New Deal history. It smacks of the Republican practice so frequently and loudly denounced by the Democrats, namely, putting big business moguls in key government jobs.

Note—Stewart McDonald also was boosted by Gas and Electric just before it went into bankruptcy. "Stew" is now an ardent booster of Jesse Jones for president.

MERRY GO-ROUND DEFINITION

Difference between Republicans and Democrats:

"Rich Republicans get lush government jobs through power in business; poor Democrats get lush business jobs through power in government."

FAUX PAS CANDIDATE

Several Republican colleagues were twitting Representative T. V. Smith, scholarly Illinois New Dealer, about his failure to score more impressively against Senator Bob Taft in their series of weekly radio debates last year.

"You were a big disappointment, T.V.," one of them glibbed. "He certainly showed you up." The red-headed ex-professor took the badinage good-naturedly. "Funny thing about those debates," he retorted. "Taft beat me at my own game—being homespun. By the way, how's his presidential campaign getting on?"

"Oh, he's doing all right. His stock is going up steadily every day."

"So I hear," rejoined Smith. "The old boy seems to be backing into the presidency from faux pas to faux pas."

VANDENBERG'S JAPS

Senator Vandenberg privately is very uneasy over the unfavorable effect upon his presidential campaign of his clamor for aggressive action against Japan. He is so concerned that he summoned his regional managers to Washington for a secret pow-wow. Their advice was that he should sopel the issue for two reasons:

- (1) The inconsistency, to the public, of his denouncing Roosevelt's appeal of the arms embargo to a war move, and at the same time demanding a war-like policy toward Japan;
- (2) complaints by GOP leaders that Vandenberg played into the hands of the Democrats by diverting public attention away from domestic affairs and focusing it on international problems.

Republican strategists have pointed out that the one thing the Democrats want is to wage the campaign on the administration's international policies, and a GOP candidate who allows them to do that would be licked from the start because the party is split on these questions. Many prominent Republicans and big contributors have publicly supported New Deal foreign measures.

The managers also reported that in the coastal states, where Vandenberg is weakest, there is much public opposition to his "let's get 'em" stand on the Japanese. No final conclusion was reached at the conference, but it is significant that since then Vandenberg has been silent about Far Eastern affairs.

Note—The consensus of opinion at the meeting was in favor of entering Vandenberg in more state primaries in opposition to Dewey. Most of the managers reported that the New Yorker, despite his lead in popular polls, was losing ground with local GOP leaders and newspapermen, with whom he had a number of personal clashes during his recent western sorties.

POLITICAL CHAFF

President Roosevelt's name will appear on the Illinois presidential ballot, but not in Lake County, which contains Chicago's famed "gold coast." If County Attorney Charles Mason can help it. He has announced that regardless of the state certifying board's favorable ruling, he intends to bar Roosevelt's name from the county ballot. Ultra-New Deal haters, Lake County Republicans are among the heaviest contributors to the party. At one fund-raising luncheon in 1936, a group of them put up $200,000. For Dewey's Nebraska speech, his managers instructed local lieutenants to see to it that delegations from all sections of the state attended, including 100 leading women, 100 WPA workers and 100 prominent Negroes if that many could be found. Inside reports indicate that Senator Taft's last farm speech went over well in the midwest, and did much to erase the sour impression left by his first agricultural talk in Des Moines, when he took a sock at crop benefit payments.

When daily she beholds him slipping from her, When he is born into Manhood's estate, His mother's loving heart is torn with anguish— But Joy returns to her if she will wait!

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The traditional March 15 solace offered to Americans who grouse over income taxes should be more consoling than ever this year. Our so-called English cousins, who always have carried a much heavier income tax load, are now hit even harder. The British government has boosted the standard tax rate from 35 to 37.5 per cent and has reduced exemptions.

It's the little fellow in this country who gets off easy — or doesn't pay any income tax at all — compared with the British. An English married couple with a wage income of $2,000 a year pays a tax of $246. An American couple with an earned income of $2,800—$800 more than the English couple—pays 80 cents.

Exemptions

The small wage earner in England is socked in two ways: Only a very low income is exempt and the beginning tax rate is high, 18.75 per cent compared with 4 per cent here. Britain's 37.5 per cent takes effect on taxable income about $640 while our 4 per cent is standard in all income brackets.

British personal exemptions are $400 income to a single person, $800 to a married couple and $200 for each dependent child. U. S. exemptions are $1,000 for a single person, $2,500 for a married couple and $400 for each dependent. Here's a striking example of how a middle class American family profits by these exemptions while its British counterpart hands over a big chunk:

J. English Smith, with a wife and three children and earning $4,000 in a year, pays a tax of $646. Henry American Brown, with the same-sized family and identical earnings, doesn't pay any federal income tax.

It works this way for the Browns: The $2,500 head of family exemption, plus $1,200 for the three children, plus an earned income credit of $400—10 per cent of $4,000—provides total deductions of $4,100.

Even with the state income tax to pay, the Browns are sitting pretty compared with the J. English Smiths. If they live in New York state, which has a comparatively high income levy, their tax would be only $6. And that's assuming they have no special allowable deductions.

The disparity between the two countries is not so great in the very high income brackets although the "big boys" in Britain get stiffer wallops. An English bachelor with an investment income of $800,000 a year must give some $663,000 of it to his government. A single American with an equivalent income from investment pays $528,240.

Good Old Days

When our federal income tax system was inaugurated in 1913 the income tax was already "old stuff" to Britons. Way back in 1692 John Bull imposed a tax upon salaries. It yielded scant revenues and died out but was revived a century later. The 1913 United States levy was much lighter than today's tax. The standard rate was 1 per cent, the maximum surtax rate was 6 per cent and personal exemptions were $3,000 to the unmarried and $4,000 to the married.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Old Alf Landon (remember him?) fears a third term for any president would mean that no other president would want to take anything less, and he's darned tootin'. To be elected for only eight years would be regarded as a confession of failure after that. "If I been a bust or do I get twelve years in the White House?" would be the way a president would put it at the end of a mere two terms. Then some year a fellow would decide to run for a fourth term or even a fifth. After that anything short of a sixteen-year stop at the White House would be regarded as temporary.

Sumner Welles has reached London without being captured or killed and he ain't had to call up the reserves yet to save him. He's suffering from a severe case of balcony poisoning, but he expected it and is well supplied with counter irritants.

The British have a way with 'em and before he gets through he will think peace has been declared and that England wasn't fighting anyhow. It's nice to be talking peace and getting answers in the same language as when having run the mile interview through a drain.

Coast Guard Mobilizes Against Flood Danger

Washington—The coast guard mobilized today a fleet of more than 300 sportsmen's motorboats in the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys in case spring rains send Ol' Man River on a rampage.

The boats on their 400 amateur operators may become the nucleus of rescue efforts if a new disaster occurs, because the coast guard has only about 25 boats of its own in this area (not including the Great Lakes). Lt. Commander Merlin O'Neill, said the craft brought to the recently-organized coastguard reserve. Enrollments throughout the country exceed 1,000.

GOSH, DEAR—CAN'T CHA TAKE A JOKE?

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—The relations between the University of Wisconsin and the Heil administration continue to attract attention.

The other day Senator William Freehoff of Waukesha county, an administration Republican, charged that certain elements of the university community are waging an "insidious propaganda" campaign against the Republicans in the capitol. Perhaps Mr. Freehoff didn't choose his adjectives carefully, but it is a fact that when you listen to the most articulate spokesmen of the university you get the impression that the Heil regime is demoralizing the school.

It is significant that such an impression is being assiduously fostered by the members of the Progressive opposition so that there is the implication that during Progressive days the university's lot was happier.

Therefore this column today produces a guest correspondent, in the person of former Gov. Phil LaFollette, leader of the Progressive party, who in his 1931 budget message to the legislature, spoke as follows:

LA FOLLETTE SPEECH

Speaking of the need of arriving at certain values in the appropriation of public funds, he commented: "Two pertinent facts are inescapable. They are obvious even to the non-expert observer. One is the continually mounting expenditure for educational purposes, and the other is the continually growing uncertainty respecting educational aims and practices. Did any people ever before set aside so large a proportion of taxes for educational purposes, and was there ever so great a volume of criticism, inside and outside the teaching profession, of these purposes? . . . There is something basically wrong about the existing educational arrangement. Nor is there any element in the situation which promises of itself to right what is wrong."

"The phenomenal growth in educational machinery which has taken place in recent years has been very largely a growth by sheer accumulating momentum, unguided by any comprehensive vision or clear sense of direction. We have drifted with the tide. Unless this issue is squarely met, unless something is actually done, the interests vested in educational machinery, and the force of institutional habit will drag us into a yet worse state of affairs. Confronted with this problem . . . a public officer must, if possible, call a halt in further expansion, at least until a survey of conditions has resulted in a greater unanimity of opinion as to the proper course to be followed."

"I am convinced that the budgets submitted by our educational institutions, both for the present and past biennium, disclose a failure to assess carefully their various activities. They disclose far too much of the mechanical and automatic, and destroy and undermine morale."

RECOMMENDS CUT

And so saying he recommended to the legislature a cut of almost a million dollars in the university and teachers' college budgets. Then this: "The question charged with the greatest initial interest is doubtless the bearing of the proposed decrease on salaries. Unless, however, the educational problem can be seen as a vastly deeper one, little or no progress can be made in its solution." (Remember that the Heil administration has not yet caused cuts in university salaries, despite all the criticism.) "The extent to which those concerned with education can see beyond this material aspect will

Personal Health Talks

AUTOINTOXICATION

It might be as well to go and holter down the rainbarrel as to try to tell some of the old fogies that costiveness doesn't cause headache. But I rather like holting down the rainbarrel. There's always the chance that some one who doesn't know more than I do about the subject may hear and, if still young enough, believe what I say.

I, too, received my early health education, from the almanac and the testimonials so copiously interlarded with the jokes and the meteorologic notes. It, too, took it for granted that if the quacks or nostrum vendors who peddled the almanacs could say or imply that the human bowel requires constant watching and regulation and that any variation of bowel and liver function from the schedules ordained by the charlatans entailed grave danger of accumulation of impurities, nay, poisons in the blood—I assumed that if the pill vendors could propagate such ideas without a word of contradiction from the medical profession or from the putative health authorities, then it must be so. Even as a sophomore medical student I was so imbued with the knowledge I had gleaned from the charlatans' bait that I was saved from consulting a notorious quack of the day for my aine only because I couldn't dig up the price. Twenty years later a great medical teacher told me that he had gone thru the same experience with aine in youth, but unfortunately he had managed to find the price for the quack's treatment, and he said the wrong ideas that quack's treatment had had an unhappy influence on the whole course of his life.

So I'll content myself with a straightforward recital of the physiological facts and leave it to you to think and do as you please. Of course you know better than a doctor does, don't you? And even if you were uncertain about that, it stands to reason that a doctor who assures the public that nobody needs any physic at any time—unless in rare emergencies under medical care—doesn't know what he's talking about, especially when all the quacks, nostrum mongers and nearly all the general practitioners in the country more or less approve if they do not urge the use of laxatives for all sorts of ailments.

Physiologists have found no evidence to support the notion of "auto-intoxication" or poisoning of the system by absorption of any product or by-product of disordered or retarded digestion in the alimentary tract.

On the contrary these authorities are in agreement that the disagreeable consequences, if any, of costiveness or delay or failure in the be a measure of their moral qualification.

"The laborer is worthy of his hire. And no public servant is more worthy of respect and more entitled to adequate compensation than the capable teacher of youth. . . . It is not in the Wisconsin tradition to show a niggardly attitude in estimating the value of such men and women."

"At the same time the acquisitive spirit should be recognized to have no place in the field of education. Every effort should be made to keep it from getting in, and if it enters, measures should be taken to get it out." President Dykstra has publicly complained that professors are leaving the university because of its poor financial prospects, and are accepting higher salaries elsewhere.

regular bowel activity, are clearly due to two factors only, first, anxiety or worry, and second, mechanical pressure from distension of the lower bowel.

There you have it—on the one hand the quacks and nostrum interests, on the other side the physiologists. This is a free country. That is, if you go along with the physiologists—it is pretty expensive if you elect to remain faithful to your almanac training.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sneakers

Physical education teacher advises girls to wear canvas shoes with rubber soles, commonly known as sneakers, three days a week when they have gymnasium class. Are these shoes unhealthy to wear all day? Should wool socks be worn with them? (Mrs. A. R. W.)

Answer—They are as healthy as any other footwear. Leave it to the individual's preference whether to wear wool socks or cotton or other material. Such shoes are usually heelless, hence I should say they are better for girls to wear than shoes with high heels.

Girls Without Girdles
Is it wrong for young girls of 25 to 30 to go without girdles if they lean all right without them? I mean, does a young girl require such support to prevent ungainliness? (Mrs. M. E.)

Answer—It is wrong, hygienically, for girls or women over to begin wearing such supports. Proper physical education will best preserve the ideal posture, carriage and grace of youth. The less corset, splint, support of any kind the woman, young or old, wears, the less tendency to become ungainly.

Megrew Tells Pan-American League About Archaeological Findings in Yucatan Region

ARCHAEOLOGICAL findings in the region of Mexico and Yucatan which provide a key to the type of civilizations found there from earliest times were discussed by Alden F. Megrew, assistant professor of art history and appreciation at Lawrence college, at the meeting of Pan-American league Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clyde Chapelle, 108 N. Green Bay street.

This region was the seat of the earliest civilization and development of the highest culture prior to the Spanish conquest in North America, he said. In 400 B. C. the first agricultural civilization appeared, the people working the land until it was exhausted and then moving on.

The Toltec was the first great civilization in Mexico, Mr. Megrew explained. The Mayan, the second and the Aztec the third, the latter conquering the Mayans and enduring until the conquest by Cortez in 1519. All of these were in the same age, just beginning to emerge into the bronze age and similar to the Egyptians of 3500 B. C. The speaker showed slides of the crude stone implements which were used.

The Toltecs reached a high culture south of Mexico City, the speaker continued, their geometric patterns equalling those of European origin. They had the finest architecture in Mexico, using long narrow chambers, polished stone on the outside of the thick walls which were decorated with beautifully colored geometrical patterns.

Low doorways were characteristic.

Developed Pyramids

The Toltecs developed pyramids, but different from those of the Egyptians in that they were not monuments but bases for temples. Archaeologists have found lovely jewels, hand beaten gold and jades as well as crystal, highly polished, showing the great skill of the people in handling their crude tools.

The Mayans developed a higher culture than the Toltecs, Mr. Megrew said, and in their architecture they developed the vault and sculptured panels. Their architecture was solid and massive and their temples were set on high platforms.

Sculptures have misled archaeologists, the speaker explained, for there have been found jades of oriental origin, which might have been traded, but also elephant forms in sculpture. Slanting eyes of figures betray the oriental origin of the people.

The Toltecs and Mayans sacrificed only animals, not humans, Mr. Megrew stated, contrary to the belief of some.

The Aztecs came from the north and conquered the Toltecs but were assimilated by them. They developed pyramids near Mexico City of earthwork and stone, using them as bases for temples. Their architecture was an adaptation of the Toltec, and they used the jaguar and plumed serpent as decorations. Their sculpture is famous, the best being the Calendar stone.

The speaker stated that after Cortez came, the Mayans produced nothing and only the Aztecs living in outlying districts produced anything of value.

In conclusion Mr. Megrew stated that there was no civilization in this region which in cultural progress ever got beyond the middle kingdom of Egypt, and the people never got beyond the barbarian stage.

State Building, Loan League Secretary Charges Government Is Moving Toward Communism

TATING that America became a great country because its people had free enterprise, but charging that free enterprise is nearer destruction in America today than it has been since the country was founded, Carl Taylor, executive secretary of Wisconsin Building and Loan League of Milwaukee, said that the American people are turning over their great business enterprises to a communistic government and leaders who do not know anything about running it, in a talk before Appleton Business and Professional Women's club last night at Conway hotel. His subject was "What Made America a Great Country?"

Mr. Taylor charged that the only difference between Russia and America is that Russia adopted communism all at once, "cutting the dog's tail off right behind his ears" while in America we are doing it little by little. He said that the government is encroaching on industry, business and professions, and putting in leaders who are chosen without regard to their qualifications, adding that the four biggest industries in the United States are government owned and operated.

The American system of government as it was in the days when it was being built was contrasted with that system today by the speaker who stated that in the beginning it was composed of labor, management and capital. The people, he said, were putting into that system all of the labor they could get, the best management available and an appreciation for capital. Today, he went on, there is a new attitude toward labor, as evidenced by the government's control of wages and hours and other laws governing the industry.

Charging that America has gone back 500 years into the dark ages when the government ran business, Mr. Taylor warned his audience as to the consequences of turning over to the government control of hours of labor. He said that in Germany Italy the government got control of labor by first setting up minimum working hours, and now those governments require that people work 80 and 90 hours a week under penalty of the law.

Scores 'New Attitude'

The speaker denounced the new attitude of the country toward management as "communistic" and charged that it is rapidly wiping out the value of capital. As an example of the new attitude toward control he quoted Mariner Eccles, chief of the Federal Reserve, as saying that there can be no future progress until people cease believing in thrift, and that every dollar saved is a stone under the wheels of progress.

"One third of the people in America don't think it is a good country," Mr. Taylor said in announcing his subject at the beginning of his talk. "They have lost faith in America and would gladly accept the communist, fascist or Nazi philosophy."

He went on to say that when half of the people in America no longer believe America is a good country, it is their duty to leave it. He said that its founders and citizens have worked for it will be voted out of existence, and the people and government will have moved back hundreds of years. To prove that America is a good country he quoted statistics showing that Americans own four out of five of all the automobiles in the world, 98 per cent of the washing machines, and that there are more ice boxes in Appleton than in all the rest of the world outside of America. The malcontents on relief who feel they have failed in America because America has failed, have a higher standard of living than working people in any other country in the world, he said.

The spiritual freedom of people in the United States is just as deep and sweet as their economic freedom, Mr. Taylor added, and the dreams of people of hundreds of years ago have become the realities of today.

Committee Named

At a business meeting of the club after the talk last night, a nominating committee was chosen to consist of Mrs. Clarence Merkle, chairman; Miss Lora Hagen and Miss Lucille Lillie, to draw up a slate for the election in April. Plans were announced for a costume party April 5 at Appleton Woman's club, and an invitation was read for a state night meeting at Kenosha April 20.

The club chorus sang two numbers, "Keep on Hopin'" and "Land of Hope and Glory." The tables were decorated with vari-colored balloons from the Wisconsin Conservation department and miniature forest and woodland scenes, arranged by the transportation and conservation committees of the club.

Starting Seeds in Sand Is New and Safer Procedure

A method of growing seedlings in sand which is kept saturated has been developed by experimenters with soilless plant culture, including United States Department of Agriculture workers. Amateurs who have sunny windows in a warm room may find it easier than the more orthodox method of using flat boxes filled with potting soil.

The saturated sand method calls for "flats" — shallow boxes — or "pans" which are shallow flower pots. Since they are to stand in water, boxes should be tight at the joints and preferably held together by a wire encircling the sides of the box and tightened.

Drainage holes are more necessary than with soil, this time to let water in rather than out. Flats or pans must be clean — brush off old soil. The sand must be clean of soil and other foreign matter. Wash sand thoroughly. To keep sand from sifting through the drainage holes cover the bottom with clean burlap.

Fill the flat or pan with the clean sand to within half an inch of the top, level the sand, then sow your seed as in any seed box. Very fine seeds may be broadcasted on the surface; larger seeds should be sown in rows and carefully covered. Cover the flat or pan with a pane of glass and a paper blanket which will exclude light.

Now place the pan or flat in a shallow tray of water, so that the water comes to within half an inch of the sand surface. Be sure the sand absorbs the water. Place the whole array in a sunny window, and keep the sand covered with the glass and paper until the seeds sprout, then remove paper and glass to admit air and sunlight.

The seedlings may be exposed to direct sunlight without injury, so long as the water level is maintained constant. They should grow sturdily without damping-off or other troubles which often affect those grown in soil.

It will not be necessary to feed the seedlings for several weeks. When they arrive at a size that you think calls for extra nourishment, prepare a nutrient solution, or liquid fertilizer, which may be made from a balanced plant food using one quarter the strength recommended for mature plants. To apply, pour off the water from your tray and replace it with your nutrient solution. After a few days drain off the nutrient solution and replace with water. The water level should be a little higher than that of the nutrient solution.

Seedling plants started in this manner may be transplanted to other boxes, with more space, or grown to considerable size by following the same method; or they may be moved directly to the garden.

The Paris museum has on exhibition an emerald taken from the mitre of Pope Julius II, who died in 1531.

Roach Forecasts $10,000,000 Tax Revenue in 1940

Cigaret Revenue Was $1,724,000 Up to March 5, Club Told

John W. Roach, chief of the state beverage tax division, said before the Appleton Lions club yesterday that it is "probable that this year's revenue from liquor, beer, and cigarette taxes will reach almost $10,000,000."

Increases in beverage taxes last year and the income from the cigarette tax, which has been in effect since September, were cited by Roach in making his prediction.

He said that at the close of business on March 5, the revenue from the cigarette tax had reached $1,724,000.

Roach told the club at its noon luncheon in the Conway hotel that "beverage tax revenues during 1939 were approximately $442,000 greater and operating costs of collecting and administering beverage taxes were 21.21 per cent lower than in 1938."

"The revenue from the tax on liquor, wine and beer, permits, and miscellaneous income during last year was $6,038,268.27, compared with a total of $5,596,172.43 the preceding year," he said.

Total revenue from liquor in 1939 was $3,639,417.15 as compared with $3,270,258.50 in 1938, he said. "Beer revenue was $2,173,397.86 compared with $2,142,805.16 in 1938 and wine revenue last year was $122,610.53 compared with $94,307.71 for the previous year."

Cigaret and beer taxes go into the state general fund while the other revenues are returned to local units of government.

Operating Costs Down
Roach said operating costs of the beverage tax division amounted to 3.23 cents of each dollar collected last year. The cost in 1938 was 4.40 cents and in 1937 it was 6.43 cents, he said.

The total revenues derived in taxes by the beverage tax division last year, including cigarette taxes for about three months, reached $7,223,550.67, the club was told.

Roach reported that the per capita apportionment of the liquor tax returned by the state to cities, towns, and villages for the last six months of 1939 was 73.9 cents per person. "This is the largest amount returned by the state to the local units of government since the creation of the beverage tax division in 1931," he said.

He stated that the revenue for the last six months of 1939 returned to the local units of government was $2,172,150.25 and is apportioned on a basis of a population of 2,936,513.

From July, 1934, to January, 1940, Outagamie county received $376,508.29 as its share of the state tax on intoxicating liquor. Of this amount, the city of Appleton received $154,295.35.

Cities Reasons
Roach said: "The reason for the largest per capita apportionment in the history of the beverage tax division was due to lower administration costs in the division, decrease in the number of division employees, more rigid enforcement of laws, and adoption of a simplified and more modern system of auditing and accounting. Roach reported that the division had 122 employees in 1937, 95 in 1938, and 65 in 1939.

Roach said that operating expenses include not only the collection of taxes but the supervision of 13,500 taverns, auditing of 1,200 accounts, and apprehension and prosecution of law violators.

The division chief described the new chemistry laboratory which the division has established for the testing of liquor. He said that it has resulted in the detection of illegal practices, and cited cases of tavern keepers who were "re-filling imported Scotch bottles with domestic Scotch." He said that his division makes about 15 arrests a month for selling untaxed liquor.

Roach said that the division has shown the principal objections to taverns as excessive noise, lax regulations, the problem of drunken driving, the affiliation of women with drinking places, and gambling.

Taxpayers Alliance Urges Policy of Pay-as-You-Go

Madison—The strange phenomena of a man demanding more public services and at the same time expecting lower taxes was subjected to analysis in the latest bulletin of the Wisconsin taxpayers alliance.

The alliance concluded that the secret of this almost universal attitude could be reduced to about three elements:

"(1) The seeker after government favors expects to gain more by public spending than he expects to lose by the tax he has to pay.

"(2) Many of us do not think we pay any taxes; a sad illusion, for over half the total tax burden is paid in hidden taxes, and

"(3) We borrow a large part of what we spend; an even more devious method of camouflaging the true cost of government.

"The remedy for this nation-wide malady," according to the alliance, "is to directly bridge the gap between public expenditures and taxes by placing all government costs, whenever possible, upon a pay-as-you-go basis and placing more emphasis upon direct instead of indirect taxes."

The alliance based its conclusions upon a searching study of the different methods by which public spending originates in the state legislature.

"The process of spending legislation can be laid directly at the door of the taxpayer himself. The spending originates with the taxpayer and reaches the statute books because the taxpayer practically forced it on his legislators. It is almost literally true that no law is ever passed in the absence of powerful, constant, and aggressive pressure," the alliance claimed.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Maria Schneider's Tested Recipes

USING A RING MOLD
When everyday meals begin to get monotonous, and nothing else, bring out the ring mold and see who it will do for you.
You have probably used it often for party foods but if you haven't counted its many other possibilities you have a surprise in store and a very pleasant one. Good looking food is just as important for family dinners as it is for parties.

I think that even the most common foods baked or molded in a ring mold take on new interest—even glamour. For instance there's your old friend spinach. Creamed salmon served in a bright green spinach ring is a simple dish and a colorful one, as good to look at as to eat.

A noodle ring with buttered peas in the center and carrots around the outside is always a good selection, and rutabagas baked in a ring mold, the center filled with peas, wins the hearts and appetites of all who look upon it.

Spinach Ring
4 cups cooked spinach
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
Tiny clove of onion
2 eggs

Drain the spinach thoroughly and chop fine or run through the food chopper. Melt the butter, add the onion and a little piece of garlic, minced fine. Cook gently until it begins to brown. Add the flour, rub to a smooth paste and gradually add the milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thick. Season with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Add the spinach, mix thoroughly and cool. Add the beaten egg yolks, mix thoroughly and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a very well-buttered ring mold, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderately slow oven 30 to 40 minutes. Loosen the spinach ring and turn out on to a large serving plate. Fill the center with creamed salmon.

Noodle Ring
1 cup melted butter
3 eggs, separated
3 cups cooked noodles

Stir butter into well drained noodles which have been cooked in salted water, and measure after cooking. Add egg yolks, well beaten, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into ring mold and set in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes. Unmold and fill center with buttered peas and arrange buttered carrots around the outside of ring.

Rutabaga Ring
2 cups cooked, buttered rutabagas
2 tablespoons flour
1-3 cup milk
Salt and pepper

Melt butter, add flour. When it bubbles, add milk gradually, stirring constantly until smooth. Drain rutabagas, mash or put through a sieve and add to first mixture. Season to taste. Cook. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, place in a well buttered mold. Set in a pan with hot water, and bake in a moderate oven 1 to 2 hours or until firm. Loosen edges and turn carefully onto hot platter, fill center with peas.

My Neighbor Says—
Make fruit ice cubes for the punch bowl. Half fill ice-cube trays in the mechanical refrigerator with water. When the cubes are partially frozen insert fresh cherries, strawberries, orange rind or lemon slices. Add bits of mint leaves for color contrast. Cover with more water and freeze.

Tomatoes will take up less room in the garden if trained to stakes or a fence.

Paste a strip of sandpaper across the bottom of the back of a picture. That will help to keep it hanging straight on the wall.

Child Who Twitches Needs Medical Care, Quiet Rest

BY ANGELO PATRI

When a child twitches any part of his body and says he cannot help it, believe him. He can't. And take pains to relieve that child of strain, or pressure, of any kind, immediately and take him to the doctor who understands about children who have tics.

Healthy children have their nerves and muscles under control. They don't know they have them. Whenever a muscle begins acting on its own it is telling you that there is trouble in the nervous system. Don't hope that there is nothing the matter and tell the child to "stop that." He can't stop it and there is something wrong. You don't know what it is and he cannot tell you. You will have to have the doctor's help.

Usually children do not have this trouble until they enter school and that might indicate that the pressure of school was too much. It isn't too much on the other children so the trouble must indicate that this child differs from them in a marked degree, that he is weaker somewhere than they. The teacher, the mother and the doctor have to put their heads together and study the child, the school routine, the home life, to find the trouble.

Such children should have vision and hearing tested at once. Tics are often the result of nervous exhaustion caused by straining to see or to hear what is going on. Sometimes the child is not nourished by his food. Again he may not be getting enough rest. Or the teacher talks too loudly. It would surprise many a teacher to learn that this is a common charge made against teachers by nervously tired children. The field should be searched for the cause, the child put under treatment and encouraged to get well.

Often such a child gets better sooner if relieved of school work. Mothers hate to take children out of school, and rightly, but there is nonsense in sending an ailing child to school. He cannot learn, he is constantly made to feel himself in the wrong for something he cannot help. He is sick and surely no body would punish a child for that? But many a child is punished and grows steadily worse, under the treatment that is meant to cure him.

Don't hesitate to take such a

Study Hands To Discover Crucial Point

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The criticism leveled at many players that they "treat each hand as though it were a problem" is really just as much a praise as it is indictment. Since hands rarely advertise the "point" concealed in them, only everlastingly alertness can insure that when there is a point it will be seen and capitalized. Consider the unobtrusive but crucial point in today's hand.

The bidding:

	North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts
2 spades	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West decided that the strong bidding of the opponents called for something desperate in the line of an opening lead, and therefore selected the diamond queen as offering the best "long shot" chance. It was a particularly happy choice, or, rather, would have been if West had followed up the advantage it gave him.

The declarer shrewdly allowed the diamond queen to hold the trick (East signaling a come-on with the ten) and took the diamond continuation with the ace. Three rounds of trumps were played and were followed by four rounds of clubs ending in the dummy. On the third spade West discarded the jack of hearts, and on the third club automatically completed his echo with the four spot. Had he been "on his toes" he would have seen that there was no reason for him to hold on to the 10 9 8 7 and that there might be a use for that four. Now declarer led a heart from dummy.

East played the six spot, and declarer played the five without hesitation. He knew West would have to overtake. Of course, with the four wasted on a discard, West did have to overtake and there was no escape for him. He cashed the ace of hearts, but then had to lead a third round which dummy ruffed while declarer discarded his losing diamond.

Had West held on to the four of hearts he easily could have escaped his throw-in. If declarer should play low to East's six East would cash his diamond trick before continuing hearts; if declarer should cover the six with the king West would win and return the four spot as the one hope of avoiding that fatal third round of hearts.

THE HOME GARDENER

by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Plant food is added to garden soil because the ideal plant growing medium is rarely found. It must be made, and to the gardener falls the lot of providing the missing elements. For success there are available numerous inexpensive test kits which, by simple operation, show what elements are missing from the soil. The average backlotter will have no need for even so simple an apparatus since agricultural extension institutes and fertilizer manufacturers have so well studied the problem that they know what additions most soils need and provide it in the products they offer.

Unfortunately, manufactured products are inorganic, plant foods, generally called fertilizers. They do not add texture to the soil and are one year stimulants. Obviously, it is unwise to use a chemical fertilizer in a garden until its action is needed. Fertilizing with inorganic materials, far in advance of the actual planting, is wasteful.

Organic plant foods are generally animal manures. They rot slowly and make plant food available over a long period. They enrich the soil and, by virtue of the residual humus after the plant food is dissolved, improve the texture of the soil. The residue of organic fertilizer will bind a light, sandy soil and loosen a heavy one.

Beauty and You

—by PATRICIA LINDSAY

A child is never too young for proper personality guidance. Every program of child-rearing stresses the importance of the years of infancy. It is during the first few years of life that fundamental habits are formed which fashion a personality. That is the expert opinion of Dr. Bert I. Beverly, medical director of the Neuro-Psychiatric Hospital of Chicago.

Mental health, which is normal growth implies, is now available to all children whose parents are able to apply the scientific knowledge which is at their disposal, stated Dr. Beverly. Under proper guidance a child's growth is normal, and he reaches maturity with the personality characteristics necessary for successful living. In more simple words, the child acquires a normal, engaging personality.

Essentials for Development
Briefly summing up Dr. Beverly's advice on infant guidance it appears that these are the primary essentials of training:

A baby needs proper food and general care for an optimum physical development.

A baby needs affection for proper quality and opportunities for emotional gratification. If these are not provided he will develop anxieties which later give rise to a distorted personality.

Security is the most fundamental need of a baby which can be given only by parents or parent substitutes. At first security is supplied largely by the mother giving him food and gratifying his emotional requirements. Additional security is given in the form of fondling during the feeding period. A baby should be fondled as much as it wants. It is easy to see when the baby tires of it, he should then be placed in bed away from all, and not be disturbed.

Parents should recognize the danger of forced feeding, painful enemas and appliances to prevent thumb sucking.

It is harmful to "break" children from a habit or into forming a habit. Dr. Beverly feels when a child is "broken" his initiative, originality and feelings become suppressed. He becomes confused, scared and resentful.

The child should feel confidence in his parents at first. Later he should have confidence in his school, teacher, community, country. As he matures he should develop confidence in himself. He should never think he is inferior to anyone.

Parents normally think their children are the finest in the world—they should convince their children of that fact.

Be Confident to Child
Parents should convince a child that he has their confidence. No matter what he does he should be able to discuss it with his parents without fear or criticism, humiliation or punishment. Instead of taking advantage of his parents, a child who feels his parents are satisfied with him, will try harder to do the right thing. Children can be expected to make mistakes. Learning by experience is the most valuable education.

Children should be allowed to stand on their own feet and solve problems up to the limit of their ability. Thus they develop self-reliance which is a sure sign of normal growth. Assured of security, confidence and self-reliance, a child has the essentials to grow into an engaged adult, capable of meeting difficult situations in life.

Here is a classic example of the intense egotism of children. David is trying to browbeat me by threatening to ostracize me from his love. He is trying to punish me when, actually he was the guilty party. His also demonstrates "projection" or the blaming of others for our own faults.

CASE Q-108: Danny and David, aged 4 and 3, respectively, were playing in the front yard, when they began quarreling.
Soon I heard Danny wail, and start running toward me for sympathy. He cried as if he had suffered a severe injury.
"David bit me," he exclaimed as he flew near.

The evidence confirmed his statement. For David's chewing gum had stuck to the arm of Danny's sweater.
"Very well," I replied. "We'll punish David by throwing his gum away."

Babies bite but big boys don't do such things.
Danny stopped crying instantly. His wails had been part of childhood's standardized sales talk, anyway. Crying is often an advertisement whereby weaklings endeavor to enlist the sympathy of the strong and maneuver the latter into doing the battling for the weak.

Danny was quite happy. His hurt hadn't been very deep, at least organically, though he would have the world believe otherwise.

Punishing Steps
But no sooner had I stopped Danny's crying, than I set up wails in David. He wanted his gum.
Patiently I explained that he couldn't have the gum, for I had thrown it away. And again I pointed out the fact that my action was a form of punishment because he had bitten his brother.

"No like daddy," he stated, beligerently, as he sat down on the porch.
I ignored his statement, so he repeated it with much more fervor.
"No like Daddy," he said in tones showing that he was deliberately trying to wound my spirit. He was challenging me.

Children Are Egotists
I mention this example today to illustrate the extreme egotism of children. In order to punish me, so to speak, or put me in the position of a humble suppliant, David simply deprived me of his love, or at least threatened to do so.
"No like Daddy," simply meant that he was dabbling with me as a good graces. He didn't utter it as a simple statement of fact, but as a dramatic curtailment of his favor and love.

David had been the guilty party. But he gracefully tried to shift the emphasis and put me in the wrong. Then he punished me by ostracizing me from his love and affection. This reaction is common among children.

Babies start out in life as intense egotists. You may recall my outlining the stages in our emotional development. The first is the egocentric wherein the world revolves around the child. He is the supreme object.

Then comes the practical, whereby he acknowledges the individuality of his two parents, followed by the gang stage; then the heterosexual stage wherein he looks to the opposite sex for affection and a mate, and, lastly, the stage of altruism. And, an adult still utilizes this love threat as a means of clubbing

Dorothy Dix Tells Old Maids To Forget Antipathy to Name

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—Will you please do everything possible to coin a new and satisfactory term for the obsolete "old maid" and broadcast it to the world. The term old maid is a relic of the Victorian days and carries with it a stigma that should not be applied to the many happy unmarried women who are engaged in worthwhile work and service in the world. Why should the so-called-old maid be so ridiculed? Why should she be a standing figure of fun in the world? ALOHA.

Answer:
Possibly there was some reproach in the term "old maid" in the days when marriage was the only avowed open to women and when it was obvious that every woman would marry if she could. Then for a woman to remain single indicated that she lacked charm and attractiveness.

But that view of the unmarried woman is so much a thing of the past now that the term "old maid" has lost any shade of disparagement which it once might have had. Nobody thinks that the reason a woman doesn't marry is because she can't marry, but assumes that she is single for the same reason that an old bachelor is, because she didn't want to marry. And no one any more thinks of making fun of one than the other.

As for inventing a new term to describe the status of an unmarried woman that would be an improvement on "old maid." I doubt if it can be done. Certainly the term "girl bachelor" was no help and was promptly repudiated by women themselves, since it made a dignified efficient, middle-aged woman sound ridiculous. Nor does the legal appellation of "spinster" offer any comfort to the woman who doesn't want to be called an old maid.

So the thing for old maids to do, it seems to me, is to get over their silly antipathy to being called "old maids" and realize that nobody else in the world, except themselves, cares whether they have no husband or have had six. No women are more popular in society than jolly old maids, and so far as "traveling alone in the world," as Mr. Kipling would say if he was considering the subject. No women are rated so highly as employees as are clever, competent old maids who can give their minds to their jobs instead of having them cluttered up with anxieties about husbands and children.

Watch Your Money
Dear Dorothy Dix—Is it love when a woman of 48 is so in love with a man of 38 that she can't think of anything but his smile or be really alive when she can't see him? Would this feeling last if they were married?
UNCERTAIN WIDOW.

Sounds like a bad case of infatuation, but these belated love affairs are hazardous adventures. My advice to you is to have the money your husband left you tied up good and tight and fast before you marry a man ten years younger than yourself.

Red-Headed Girls
Dear Miss Dix—I am very much in love with a fine girl, but she has red hair and my mother has an allergy toward red hair. She refuses to see her or have anything to do with her or her family. This has made a very strained relationship between my mother and myself. Another thing that worries me is the supposedly eternal fickleness of red-headed women. I have had any number of people warn me against marrying a redhead. Do you think redheads are generally bad-tempered and fickle? This girl doesn't seem so, but after all girls put their best foot forward in order to get their man. Please advise me.
LOUIS.

Answer:
The color of a girl's hair has nothing to do with her character and I am surprised that you should be silly enough to think it does. Your mother would be equally opposed to your marrying a brunette or a blond.

Answer:
Certainly when the wife helps to bring in the bacon, the husband should take his turn at frying it, but unfortunately this seldom happens. In the great majority of cases where the wife works outside of the home

"HOW DO YOU HAPPEN TO MOVE HERE, ANYWAY?" Dirck asked me.

I gave him a five-minute talk on the advertisement in the paper, viewing the apartment, carefully omitting any mention of Toby, and finally moving in and its predicaments.

"Now isn't that just like you to be sitting on the sidewalk in the middle of the winter?"

I raised an eyebrow. "You seem to have a low notion, Mr. Kolff, about me and my doings."

"I've been hearing about you from Taylor ever since you got removed from boarding school for throwing spit balls."

"It wasn't spit balls," I said firmly. "Anyway, I thought I could trust Mr. Taylor. Arent lawyers supposed to keep confidences?"

Dirck smiled. "I worried it out of him. You were a cute little kid."

He changed the subject abruptly. "Do you think Kimball got on well with his niece?"

"I believe so. I think he's grand." Dirck nodded. "Every mystery must have his romance," he said gravely.

"My secret passion," I said just as gravely. "Is the young man who guards the front door."

"Him. The red-headed one?"

"Yes."

SOFT YOKE

A409

BY ANNE ADAMS
"Tis the season for little jacket-dresses—so smart for both indoor and street wear. Anne Adams' Pattern 4409 beckons over with youthful spirit. The necklines of both jacket and dress, shown high and round, may be sweetheart shaped, too. The soft frock highlights a wide waistline, the bodice becomingly curved on top. See how nicely the deep yoke follows the line of the bodice and holds flatteringly softness below. Add lace-trim or fancy braid edging if you like gay trim. The jacket, with its trim tailoring, may be of the dress fabric. A more novel idea is to let the skirt and waistband match the jacket. Or have just the jacket in contrast—guardman's red wool is very new."

Pattern 4409 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 18, entire ensemble, takes 5½ yards 39 in fabric.

Send fifteen cents (15¢) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

I nodded. "None of us is supposed to leave."

"Any thing else?"

"I nodded 'Mg5mto5hgdaw'."

"That's all, except the lighter."

I told him about that, then showed him my list of questions on the drawing board. He seemed more interested in the list than the missing lighter.

"If I were you," he said thoughtfully. "I'd leave the questions on the board just as they are in full view of anyone who might come in the room. It's just a chance that there is someone who's interested enough to keep a close watch on everything in the house."

"Young man," I said, "I'm no skully, but I don't want people skulking through my apartment. That man last night nearly scared the daylight out of me."

Dirck shouted with laughter.

"According to Mr. Kimball, the Sergeant of the City was one of your boy friends. I've been in on a good many cases, but never before have I seen a respectable girl accused of such varied and lurid deeds. Lock your door at night by all means, but why not leave it ajar or at least unlocked during the day? Unless you have valuables you're afraid might be stolen, he said with a twinkle.

"If I had any valuables," I said, "I wouldn't be living in this neighborhood. Painting water colors isn't as lucrative as it used to be. I'll leave the door unlocked, but I'm glad Taylor fixed up my will before he left."

"Don't be morbid."

"It's because I haven't had any lunch," I said sadly. "They're pretty strict about letting us out of the house."

"My darling," he got up. "I'm sure," he said as he poked through his overcoat pockets, "that I've got something in here for you."

"Chocolate cake, maybe, or chicken sandwiches?" I said hopefully.

He beamed as his hand struck something. He threw me a package. It was throat lozenges. I threw them back.

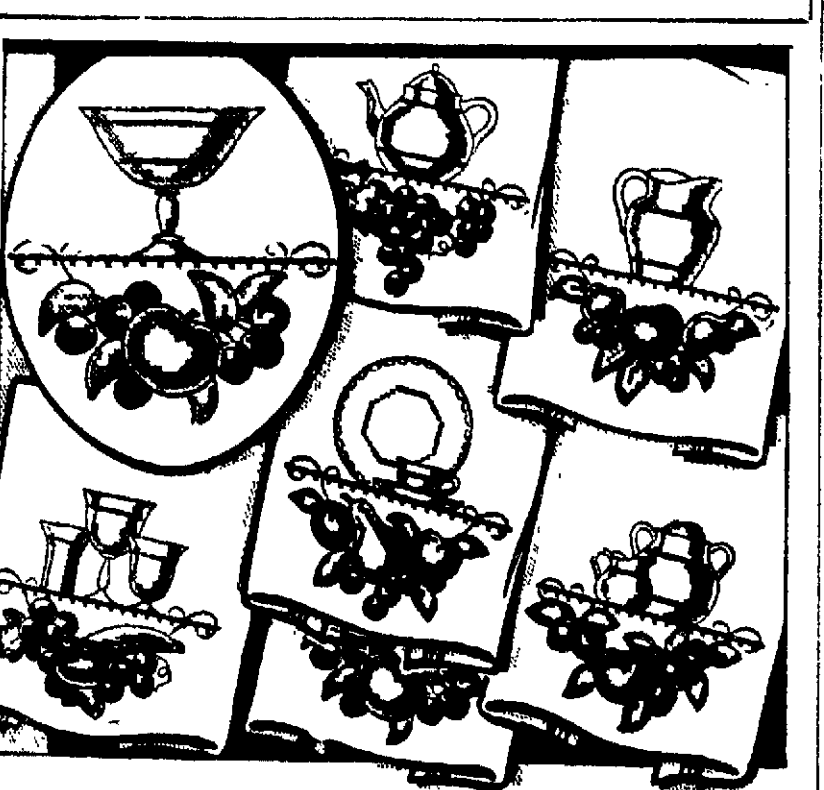

"Sit tight," he said. "I'll turn in and talk to the girls in the front apartment, and then we'll feed you lavishly." He opened the door. "By the way, when one was I to fall for."

"If you have any taste at all in girls or like a very interesting shade of red hair, you'll know which one."

Through the Window
When Dirck finally did come back to my room it was after five and dark outside. I was sitting by the window, feeling at low ebb.

CIO Opens Fight Opposing Wagner Act Amendments

Movement Is Effort to "Emasculate" Law, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—A barrage of bitterness has been unleashed by the CIO against the amendments to the Wagner act proposed by the Smith committee of the house. This is the beginning of an effort to persuade the country that the Smith amendments "emasculate" the act. No greater piece of misrepresentation has ever come out of a labor organization. For the truth is the amendments do not affect labor's basic rights under the Wagner law at all. What they do, of course, is to call for a new set of judges, and the CIO doesn't like this at all because the present judges are partisan in behalf of CIO policies.

Chairman Smith uttered a truism the other day when he said not a single one of his proposals would have been necessary if there had been fair and just administrative action by the board itself, not even the one creating a new personnel on the labor board.

The two majority members of the board are putting up a fight to retain their jobs and they are counting on the CIO to do the fighting for them in the future as in the past. The spectacle of two government officials engineering a fight in congress whereby their positions are untouched by a new law is an interesting one. It shows how governmental power can be misused to perpetuate a bureaucratic regime. Congress does a lot of talking about the Hatch law, but in front of its eyes is a flagrant violation of federal statutes by the labor board and no prosecutions are ordered. Indeed, the congress is being be-

HOSTESSES AT CLINTONVILLE STYLE SHOW

Hostesses at the recent style show sponsored by the Junior Woman's club of Clintonville in conjunction with the club's golden jubilee celebration of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs are pictured above. sought to keep in public office two members of the board who have been revealed by the testimony to have violated the principles of fair dealing in their conduct of public office.

Tame Proposals

The CIO, of course, will try to give the impression that the Wagner law is about to be wrecked. A hue and cry is already being set up through the CIO organizations with a view to whipping up public sentiment against the Smith amendments, which, in fact, are about the tamest proposals that have come out of an investigating committee in a long, long while.

The heart and soul of the Wagner act is the list of unfair labor practices which an employer alone can commit. These are unchanged. Nothing is added to the act and nothing is subtracted that touches the right of collective bargaining.

If the American federation of labor doesn't announce its whole-hearted support of the Smith amendments, it will only be because of a fear of the CIO attack, as the Smith amendments are almost parallel with those asked by the American federation of labor conventions and executive council meetings.

The Smith amendments relate to procedure. They assure a fair trial to the citizen and merely write into law what the supreme court of the United States said in the Jones and Laughlin case. But the CIO does not want the board to be limited in any way. It wants the board to continue to be used as an ally of the CIO. If the CIO had said in its announcement that the Smith amendments will prevent any group or faction in the labor field from having an improper relationship with the labor board, the statement would have been an accurate description of what has happened.

Policy Declaration

Much misrepresentation has been uttered also by the CIO concerning the proposed changes in the preamble of the Wagner act. When the preamble was passed in 1935 it was merely a declaration of national policy. It was intended to convey the idea that collective bargaining was a basic right in America. It should be so regarded and there is nothing in the Smith amendments which changes that basic declaration. The wording of the preamble, however, has been twisted by the present labor board so as to mean that a man can be coerced to join a union. The congress did not declare this as a national policy, or any form of compulsory unionization of workers in America.

Senator Wagner did not intend it so either. So when a preamble is used as a justification for all sorts of technical decisions that deny American citizens their fundamental right to decide for themselves whether or not they want to join a union, it is natural that congress should want to do something about it. If the preamble had not been abused by the labor board, no amendment would now be suggested by the house committee which investigated the misuse of power by the board on this point. Preambles ordinarily are not twisted around to justify decisions of judicial bodies. So long as the main portion of the Wagner law is unchanged, there can be no basis for the cry that the act is "emasculated" just because a partisan board is legally prevented from distorting the words of the preamble itself.

As a matter of fact, labor—both the CIO and the A. F. of L.—should have rejoiced at the mildness of the Smith committee amendments. For after nearly five years of the operation of the Wagner law, a special house committee merely recommended a few procedural and administrative changes in the operations of the board and inserts a few amendments to protect fair hearings. These proposals would have been superfluous if the board had been fair and objective, instead of biased in favor of CIO policies.

Not a single attack has been made on collective bargaining. Senator Wagner has won a great victory for the principle which he has so long espoused.

with only the candle for light. I'd put the spare bulb in the bathroom to bathe and dress by, though I didn't have the energy to do anything about it. Dirck said he'd been up to see Richard MacDonald, but before he had time to come in and tell me about it the Sergeant came upstairs and Dirck followed him into Joan Kent's apartment.

"All he can do is throw me out," he said cheerfully as he left.

But he wasn't thrown out, and in a couple of minutes he called me in. The Sergeant was leaning at a perilous angle out of the window. He motioned to Dirck to close the door to the hall and then turned to me.

"Think carefully now," he said, very much excited. "After you went back to your own apartment last night, did you hear the door of this room, or any door, being opened or closed?"

"No, I didn't. I'm sure I would have heard it, too, because I stood inside of my own door trying to lock it."

"Did you hear anyone in the hall directly after that?"

"Not for about twenty minutes. Then I heard someone come upstairs. It must have been the man who came into my apartment. After he left I heard the quarreling, and after that someone else came up from the first floor."

"That must have been Miss Rogers, the pretty red-haired girl," Dirck said. "She said she got back about twenty past twelve."

The Sergeant sat down in a large chair by the window. "God, I'm tired," he said, resting his feet on a footstool. "Now, Kolff, what I can't understand is, when the murderer could so easily have left by the door, why should he think he left by the window. I'm still convinced that he waited until the coast was clear and then left by the stairs. There was no footprints in the snow outside, because that fool janitor turned up in time to clean the snow out of the side yard and the path to the garage this morning, there would have been footprints. But I still stick to the stairs."

"He might have opened the window," he went on, "so that the body would get cold and make it hard to determine when the murder was done. As a matter of fact, the girl was in her nightgown and ready for bed. Maybe she opened the window herself."

"It was too cold," Dirck said. "I don't think she'd have opened it until she was ready to get into bed. She'd have hardly been sitting there with the wind blowing over her and only a thin silk dressing gown on over her nightdress."

The Sergeant regarded him sourly. "It would take an athlete to get out of the window and swing down to the court."

"I don't think so," Dirck said. "The only difficulty to my mind was doing it with gloves on. It made it hard to get a grip on that drain pipe."

"Well, we'll try it out. I'll get Norton and maybe I can prove my point," the Sergeant said as he left the room.

Dirck was busy making some calculations on a piece of paper, so I looked around the apartment. It was a lovely room, perfectly furnished and arranged. You could get a pretty clear idea of the girl from her things; the duai blue rug, the chintz-covered chairs, a bowl of moss roses, now wilted with the cold, on the dropleaf table and on the low coffee table in front of the couch a collection of funny little carved wooden dogs. Poking out from the low footstool were a pair of small brown suede pumps, their round toes scuffed and somehow pathetic.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

"GOLDEN CITIES"

Coronado and his men searched long and hard for the "seven golden cities." Each time they entered a settlement, they hoped to find gold, but they had no such fortune.

View of present-day pueblo.

At length the leader wrote a letter to the governor of Mexico. Using the Spanish language, he set down words with this English meaning:

"The 'seven cities' are only seven villages! They are called the Kingdom of Cibola."

"In the village where I am staying now, there are about 200 houses with a wall around them. Some of them are four or five stories high. Ladders are used to climb from one story to another. The ladders are made of wood, and can be moved from place to place."

"The Indians in the village are of usual size. They have fowls and say they raise them to obtain feathers not to kill them for food. The food which they eat in this country is mainly corn and beans. They make the best corn cakes I have ever tasted."

Coronado also told about the skull of the natives in climbing the ladders which led from one story to another of their homes. "One of the Indian women," he said, "can carry a jug of water up a ladder on her head without touching it with either hand."

The natives of Cibola later were given the names of Pueblo Indians. "Pueblo" is a Spanish word meaning "village."

If we wish to locate Cibola closely, we find it in the western half of New Mexico. It is a center of the tribes in the Pueblo group. Telling more about the Zuni Indians, Coronado wrote:

"The climate of this country is almost like Mexico sometimes hot, sometimes rainy. The natives tell me that in winter there is much snow and the air is very cold. They use skins of animals to keep themselves warm in cold weather."

"There are no trees which are fit for firewood (inside the village) but the Indians can obtain what wood they need from a clump of trees four leagues away."

It was interesting to Coronado to find people with these manners and customs but he was not content. What he wanted was gold and he did not want to go back to Mexico without obtaining some of the yellow metal.

Ray Wippich Tops Bluejay Scoring For Cage Season

Sophomore Center Accounts for 97 Points in 17-Game Schedule

Menasha — Ray Wippich, sophomore center of the Menasha High school basketball team, was the leading scorer on the quintet during the 17-game schedule. Wippich scored 97 points on 35 field goals and 27 free throws.

Wippich also was charged with the most personal fouls, 49, and missed the most free throws during the season, 41. He converted on 27 free throws and was second high in that department, following Gus Block who sank 28 gift shots.

Block, another sophomore, was the second high scorer on the squad with 28 field goals and 28 free throws for 84 points. Block missed on only 18 gift shots and had the best average on the team, converting on 60.8 per cent of his attempts.

Although the Bluejays won only six of their 17 games, they were outscored by only a narrow margin over the entire season, 417 points to 450. The Jays captured their opponents from the field, 152 goals to 150, but fell behind from the free throw stripe.

The Jays converted on 41.3 per cent of their gift shots, making 93 and missing on 132 attempts. The Jays were charged with 232 fouls during the season giving the opponents 302 gift shots. Opponents made nearly half of those gift attempts, making 150 and missing 152. Opponents had only 195 fouls.

Four Will Graduate
Anderson, a regular last year, did not report at the start of the season this year because he was working. However, he did get into nine games and collected 35 points to rank fifth in Bluejay scoring for the season. If he had been with the Jays all season, his height would have made a difference and the Jays might have won some of those close decisions that they lost.

Four of the players are juniors. They are the Landskron brothers, Richard and Fred who ranked third and fourth in scoring, Henry Osiewalski, and Dean Younger. Younger was the tallest man on the squad.

Lieutenant Talks Before Students

Police Officer Sounds Warning Against Railroad Dangers

Menasha—E. J. McMahon, lieutenant of the Milwaukee railroad police, spoke of safety at an assembly program Monday afternoon at Menasha High school. In addition to general safety topics, McMahon stressed the dangers to children in trespassing on railroad property, particularly yards where switching is in progress. The students were warned against "flipping rides," a habit which takes several youthful lives each year. Acts such as placing objects on the rails, stoning trains or breaking insulators on telegraph and signal lines result in danger to passengers and trainmen. The speaker also pointed out that pilfering railroad property and association with the questionable and often criminal characters found tiding freight and in the "jungles" is a hazard to morals.

Students of the Menasha schools including public and private grade and high schools will have an opportunity to compete in an essay contest. Cash prizes for the best essays on how boys and girls may promote railroad safety will be awarded by the Green Bay Milwaukee Road Women's Club. The only requirement is that the school must be near enough to the Milwaukee road line so that students will cross the track on their way to and from classes. Essays must not exceed 500 words. They are to be based on the lecture which Lieutenant McMahon is giving in the schools throughout the district. Essays must be submitted within two weeks to Mrs. McMahon, 405 Twelfth avenue, Green Bay.

All other village offices are thus far without opposition.

Voters will decide at the election whether the president, clerk, treasurer, and constable, should be elected for a two-year term. A special referendum will be held on the question. Present terms are for one year.

The ancient Welsh and Irish played a musical instrument called a crwth. It resembled a violin and was played with a bow.

On the other side, Prof. Locke found that several industrial concerns were using the Wassermann test as a means of discovering and curing the disease, because they find healthy workers more efficient producers and because syphilis and gonorrhea often caused alleged industrial injuries.

Prof. Locke tells a dramatic story of the change in the attitude of the United States since the turn of this century. In 1906, he says the Ladies Home Journal, after publishing articles and editorials on syphilis, received cancellations of 75,000 subscriptions, and some advertising accounts. But in 1907 an article brought no criticism. Instead there was favorable response that drew a second article.

In 1908, officers of the United States Public Health Service prepared a carefully-worded pamphlet on venereal disease, to be distributed to seamen. But the secretary of the treasury, George B. Cortelyou, refused to approve it because, Prof. Locke quotes, "the matter contained in this bulletin is not in keeping with the dignity of the federal department of the government."

Employment Issue Vital Factor in Syphilis Control

If Discovery Costs Job, Disease Will Not be Reported

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associate Press Science Editor, Bloomington, Ind.—The main battle to control syphilis in the United States has yet to be fought. This is shown in a study made at Indiana University by Dr. Harvey J. Locke, assistant professor of sociology, for Indiana's committee for study of marriage legislation. One part of the battle will concern whether a person is to lose his job if it is found he has, or even has had, this disease. For, if discovery costs a job, syphilis will not be reported, and without reporting and follow-up work, physicians cannot prevent indiscriminate spreading of the disease. As an official example of a widespread attitude, Dr. Locke cites the action of the social security board three years ago. In 1937, he states, the board "had the public health service give Wassermann tests as part of the pre-employment examinations and rejected those having positive Wassermann tests. Dr. Thomas Parran, who reports this, says that, having found the Wassermann positives, the civil service commission said in effect "we can't employ these people. They have a higher expectancy of disability than the normal. They will load down our pension rolls. To take them would be unfair to other employees and to the government which must bear the cost of their disability."

MovieLand Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hartford, Conn. — Dear Staff: I wonder if Tyrone Power, while congratulating himself on a narrow escape from serious injury in that skating crack-up, has also considered what his disability — or worse — would have meant to thousands of movie workers. If he has, he may realize that studio attempts to safeguard the off-set lives of their important stars are not so unreasonable, after all.

Like many other top notchers, Ty is devoted to thrill-cramped sports, and, like all the rest, he's burned when studio execs said "You mustn't do it." He was particularly hot under the collar, I understand, when Zanuck ruled that he couldn't fly his new plane unless accompanied by a veteran co-pilot. "My private life is my own business," he argued. "Between pictures, I should be able to do what I please."

The argument seems sound—until you appraise all the facts. Stars like Power, Flynn, Tracy and Gable are multi-million dollar investments. Once they've gained a big fan following, they are their studios' most important assets. The studios build their production schedules around them and depend on their popularity to meet payrolls and pay their stockholders' needed dividends. Exhibitors depend upon their predictable profits from their pictures.

Reports from Reno today indicate that at least 150,000 out-of-towners will be on hand for the big blow-out honoring the premiere of "Virginia City." On the comeback trail, Mae Clarke-Republic signed her for an important role in "Woman in War." NY actor Jon Whitcomb is here Romeo-ing Alice Knox, once his model, who's now a 20th Century best bet. Bette Davis has shed 22 of her New Hampshire neighbors to give that hit-toxic farm-house she bought a complete face-lift. Evidently Warner Brothers don't value the opinions of Harvard critics — they've given Ann Sheridan a new and better contract. Clear Romero is on a six-month-a-day diet to build weight. ... Boss, just in case you need cheering-up, here's today's best story. Seems the mother of a screen hopeful, rolled and sacrificed for years so that he could gamble on Hollywood success. Finally he clicked and became a big star. "Mother," he said after signing his lush contract, "all these years you've worked for me. Now I want you to go out and get a good job, for YOURSELF."

Appleton Team Goes to Sheboygan May 11 For Chair Opener

APPLETON entry in the Wisconsin State league, the newly organized Class D circuit in the state, will open the season at home against Green Bay on Thursday, May 9, according to the schedule released today by Herman White, league president. It will be the opening day of the season.

Green Bay will be back for the next day's game and on Saturday, May 11, Appleton will go to Sheboygan to pry the lid off in that city. It should be a gala afternoon for Sheboygan takes its baseball openers seriously with a big parade and a big turnout. A second game will be staged on Sunday, May 12.

On May 13 and 14 Appleton will be at home to LaCrosse and the following two days May 15 and 16, Wisconsin Rapids will show here. The Papermakers then will be on the road until May 25 when Fond du Lac comes here to be followed by Sheboygan.

The schedule has been arranged to have series run only two days each if possible, a situation made possible by the compactness of the circuit. No team will be away from home more than a week, but Appleton is one of the first to have that experience.

No Holiday Dates
Appleton has no holiday dates at home unless some game is transferred here. However, the league's holiday receipts are pooled and split among the teams so that holidays are neither a bonanza for one team nor a pain for another.

Since the election of officers of the Appleton Baseball club, Inc., interest in the team and the circuit has hit a new high. The officers are C. O. Baetz, president, George Oudenhoven, vice president, Joseph N. Garvey, secretary, and John Wissman, treasurer. The manager of the team is Eddie Danicak, Waukegan, Ind., who will come to Appleton early next month to prepare for spring training.

Sale of stock in the new club is going forward. Shares are selling at $5 each and many fans who haven't been contacted by workers are making voluntary subscriptions. Any one of the officers will accept subscriptions.

Texas Squad Beats Ripon in Tourney

Score 49-39; Last Year's Finalists in Debut Tonight

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN
Kansas City, Mo. — Both Southwestern college of Winfield, Kas., and San Diego, Calif. State, the Kansas victors in that hectic 32 to 31 final a year ago, make their debuts in the National intercollegiate basketball tournament tonight.

The coast team opens against East Central State of Ada, Okla., and the moundbuilders tangle with Loras college of Dubuque, Iowa.

Height is one of the more desirable qualities every basketball coach seeks but there isn't a mentor attending this tournament who wouldn't find room on his squad for stubby Harold Koroski of Glenview, W. Va. State, 5'2".

He's only five feet, five and every ounce of his 196 pounds of tissue jiggles as he thumps down the floor but he is a human handoff once play gets under way. And on offensive he is more than a 50-50 possibility to score once he reaches the free throw line.

He went out early in last night's victory over Wayne, Neb., Teachers with a badly sprained ankle that may sideline him the rest of the week.

First round scores:
Tarkio (Mo.) college 54, Alfred Holbrook college, Manchester, O., 37.
Hamline university, St. Paul, Minn., 47, Pacific university, Forest Grove, Ore., 26.
East Texas State, Commerce, 49, Ripon college, 38.
Pittsburgh (Kas.) Teachers 47, St. Joseph college, Collegeville, Ind., 26.
Southeastern Oklahoma State, Durant, 33, Louisiana State Normal, Natchitoches, 27.
Glenview, W. Va. State, 50, Wayne (Neb.) Teachers 38.
West Texas State, Canyon, 60, Northern State Teachers, Aberdeen, S. D., 52.
Appalachian State, Boone, N. C., 43, Bemidji, Minn., Teachers 34.
Ripon was eliminated in the first round by an East Texas State Teachers college five, of Commerce, Tex., which caught the fancy of afternoon spectators yesterday.

The Texans' tall center, Bob Carpenter, equaled his own record by scoring 23 points. Captain Blocher was high man for Ripon with 12 points.

Wisconsin's sole remaining entry, Superior State Teachers college, was scheduled to play upper Iowa University, of Fayette, Ia., in a first round game at 12:30 p. m. today.

'Slip' Madigan, St. Mary Coach, Ousted by Board

Officials Decide Not to Renew Contract; Withhold Reasons

SAN FRANCISCO —(U)—Edward P. (Slip) Madigan, who raised St. Mary's college from obscurity to national prominence on football gridirons, was out of his 18-year coaching job today by order of the college athletic board, but their reason for the sudden action was undisclosed.

The board decided yesterday not to renew Madigan's contract when it expires March 31, 1941, and announced the decision in telegrams dispatched to newspapers.

Madison, who came to St. Mary's in 1921 when the college had 71 students, could not be reached. J. Philip Murphy, chairman of the St. Mary's board of athletic control, announced the body not only voted to end Madigan's services, but that he would not coach the 1940 team, either in spring practice or during the fall season.

The spring practice will be handled by Norman P. "Red" Strader, assistant mentor, mentioned in some quarters as a possible successor to the retiring coach.

Has Been Ill
Speculation surrounding the board's action centered on the health of Madigan, who has been ill several months with a stomach ailment, and the fact St. Mary's 1939 season was somewhat dismal. The Gaels won three games, lost four and tied one.

Reports that Madigan might withdraw from the coaching picture and submit to an operation have been current for some time, and last week there were rumors he would be ousted.

There also were reports that Madigan would sign with Loyola college in Los Angeles, but officials there said last night he was not under consideration for the coaching position.

Murphy stated that the college would respect Madigan's salary rights under the contract until it expired, despite the fact his jurisdiction over the institution's grid destinies was ended.

The colorful Madigan, who jumped up and down on the sidelines and drank water by the bucketful during tense moments, was reputed to draw a $7,000 annual salary plus 10 per cent of St. Mary's football receipts.

Grinnell Forward Paced Midwest

Jim Nash Scored 202 Points, an Average of 17 Per Game

Jim Nash of Grinnell set a mark of 202 points for the individual scoring championship of the Midwest conference during the basketball season just closed. The Pioneer captain, a forward, averaged 17 points per game for the 12 games, dropping in 86 field goals and 30 free throws.

In second spot is Sam Ennor of Knox with 165. His 59 points on free throws were far by the best in that department. Dud Plunkett of Monmouth was third, for the second consecutive year, scoring 140, while his team-mate, Slim Mannen, took up fourth with 134. Beloit's Will Harmon followed closely with 130. The first thirteen men on this year's list topped the winning total of 104 scored by Olson of Carleton last season, but he played in only 8 games.

Don Fredrickson, Lawrence's high scorer, was tenth on the list with 109 points.

Chaffin Chapter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

IT WOULD APPEAR that my friends on Valley conference newspapers are stirring up a lot of rivalry or an interesting scrap among themselves.

Recently Art Daley at Fond du Lac took Sheboygan Central to task for "laying it on" against Fondy. The score was 23 to 9 at the half and in the third quarter it was 38 to 14. Then each coach sent in reserves with Fondy's coach taking the lead. A little later the Sheboygan crowd had a technical hung on it for booing when a Fondy lad was making a free throw. The Central coach didn't like things either and sent back his regulars to run up the score.

Daley also commented that one of the officials called a technical on Del State of Fond du Lac because the latter stamped his foot. Tsk, tsk, Mr. Thune.

And this is how John Torinus of the Green Bay Press-Gazette continued to build up the feeling between the Green Bay schools and Oshkosh. It's about the Oshkosh-East game:

Oshkosh got a taste of impartial officiating here Friday night and players, coach and fans put on a disgraceful exhibition. The highlight came when Dick Bixby, conference scoring leader and Oshkosh sparkplug, was called for his third foul in the closing minutes. Bixby raised such a storm that Umpire C. G. Abendroth was forced to eject him from the game.

As he walked across the floor Bixby acted like a four-year-old kid being led to the woodshed. Coach Jack Nussbaum of Oshkosh, players and fans stormed out on the floor, and Nussbaum delivered himself of his feelings in Abendroth's face.

After the Appleton-Oshkosh game we were asked what we thought about the attitude of the Oshkosh crowd. The answer was that the game was no indication of what the crowd might do. Oshkosh was so far behind and so badly outplayed the crowd was stunned; had the game been close then we'd have learned how an Oshkosh crowd acted. Or any crowd, for that matter.

Incidentally, there are coaches who don't like Coach Jack Nussbaum's habit of seating himself at the extreme end of the bleachers and far away from the visiting team. The boys claim that Nussbaum is at a vantage point to "ride" the officials, that the other coach can't hear his squawks and that the talk often brings Oshkosh and Nussbaum breaks in the game.

Bowling and golf friends of Billy Sixty of the Milwaukee Journal staff are offering their sympathy following a motor accident which has Bill flat on his back in St. Joseph hospital, Milwaukee. Bill's car rolled over and he figured he had a stiff neck out of the accident. But further examination revealed that seven vertebrae had been dislocated and the doctors now have him where he can't do any more bowling this winter.

Here's the lead on a Wisconsin boxing story as received over the AP wires yesterday:
Madison, Wis.—(U)—Comment by boxing fans on what they termed partisan officiating lingered in sports discussion today as the University of Wisconsin boxing team returned from Baton Rouge, La., where the Badgers were defeated by Louisiana State Saturday night 5 to 3.

And here's the comment from the Milwaukee office of the AP to the Madison office about the story, MA being the wire call letters of Madison and MI the call letters of Milwaukee:
MA:
Suggest sub intro first two grafs boxing story. Don't see how Madisonians, who didn't see fights, can qualify as judges of officiating.

Almost every spectator at the Menasha regional tournament probably has his own version of an all-tournament basketball team, but here is one selected by N. A. Calder, who was watching his twenty-first tournament. Calder participated in four tournaments as a student at Menasha High and then coached Menasha teams in 16 before retiring from basketball to devote his time to directing the physical education program at Menasha and coaching football.

His first team would include Harland Hesselman, Neenah, top scorer of the tournament and leader of the Neenah team; W. Alger, Kaukauna, because of his scoring ability although he was somewhat weak on defense; G. Hertz, Weyauwega's star player; R. Hermans, ace of the DePere squad, and R. Miller, Neenah's speedy guard, whose fight and dribbling helped the Rockets to the title.

On the second team would be Williams of Kimberly, a top player for one quarter; Giordana, Kaukauna, who was tops as a guard although he was a bit off in scoring; LeRoy Grancorbits, center of the Wega team and a brilliant player against New London but handicapped after that by a sprained ankle; Pucc, spearhead of the New London attack through the tourney, and Collins, the tow-headed DePere guard, who played the same role on his team as did Miller for Neenah.

Those two teams would have height and scoring ability in four players and a fifth smaller man as a spark plug with dribbling ability and enough speed to both opponents. However, that squad necessitates omitting such players as Herzfeldt of Neenah, Gus Block and Douglas Anderson of Menasha, Collier of DePere, Ross and Poppy of New London, and J. Bloch of Kaukauna, all of whom were important to their respective teams.

Hobbins led Sunnitch Grocers to a 2-game win over Soo Line. E. Mollen's 432 was high in the losers' column. J. Mueller pounded 202 and 527 as Pitz and Treiber took two from Fountain Lumber and went into a tie with Zoric Cleaners for first place. E. Femal bowled a 500 series for the losers.

Lloyd Mangrum Gets An Eagle 3 on Last Hole, Pockets $700
Thomasville, Ga. —(U)— Golf's money players headed for St. Augustine, Fla., today with a new hero in their midst — dapper, mustached Lloyd Mangrum, a 145-pounder who rapped out an eagle three on the last hole to win the Thomasville $3,000 open.

The slender young assistant from Oak Park, Ill., didn't exactly have to have the eagle to win. A birdie would have done it, although a par would have left him in a snarl with open champion Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, the runnerup.

Mangrum pocketed the $700 top money of his first major championship by joining up rounds of 68, 68 and 67 for a 54-hole 203, 13 under the Glen Arven par and eight better than Henry Picard's 1939 winning score. He got the victory-clinching 18th hole dog-leg by cutting across the long dog-leg, laying to the green with a No. 2 iron second shot and holing a 20-foot putt.

Maki to Race Deckard Over 3-Mile Stretch

Chicago —(U)— Taisto Maki, the great Finnish distance runner, may get a taste of some real opposition Friday night at the University of Chicago fieldhouse.

Maki, on tour with Paavo Nurmi in the interests of the Finnish relief fund, will match strides with Tommy Deckard, Indiana university star, over the three-mile route. Deckard had asked Maki to race at two miles but the Finnish ace insisted on the longer route.

Echoes of World Series; Yankees Beat Reds Again

Champions Show Superiority in Winning 8-7; Sundra on Mound

BY GAYLE TALBOT

AMPA, FLA. —(U)— Those of us who wondered last fall how long the Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees could have gone on playing the world series before the Reds won a game had the question partially answered, at least, when the champs poured it on again in an exhibition battle here yesterday, 8 to 7.

That made it five in a row for Joe McCarthy's mighty crew over the National leaguers and, although they did not treat Ernie Lombard like a tackling dummy this time, the Yanks otherwise displayed about the same margin of superiority as they did in the big autumn bust.

In other words, they gave the impression they could win whenever, they pleased.

Yesterday the Red's didn't have to look at Joe DiMaggio, Bill Dickey, or Red Ruffing, the three who dealt them such sustained misery in the world series, yet the result was the same. Joe Gordon knocked around the winning run in the eighth, like some Yank usually does, while Steve Sundra, one of the second-line Yank pitchers, baffled the Reds in the late innings.

In losing their fourth straight exhibition game yesterday—two to Brooklyn and one each to the Boston Red Sox and the Yanks—the Reds still look like they needed a couple of outfielders to team up with Ival Goodman. Though he has gained some 25 pounds since the world series, Larry Carr still is in a painful batting slump.

Manager Bill McKeehan is working hard with Mike McCormick, who hit .318 with Indianapolis, and with Arthur Luce, who hit .294 for Birmingham, but the prospects are not inspiring. Vince DiMaggio and Wally Berger are the other two possibilities—one the champion striker-out of all baseball and the other about through except as a pinch-hitter.

Billiards Champ Beats Thurnblad of Kenosha

Chicago —(U)— Welker Cochran, of San Francisco, recognized as defending champion in the world's three cushion billiards tournament, defeated Art Thurnblad, of Kenosha, Wis., a former title-holder, 50 to 47 in 62 innings yesterday.

Cochran's high run in the slow match was four, one less than the best cluster Thurnblad put together. In other first day matches, Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., beat Arthur Rubin, of New York, 50 to 33 in 44 innings; Jake Schaefer, of Cleveland, defeated Otto Reisel, Philadelphia veteran, 50 to 34 in 63 innings, and Willie Hoppe, of New York, got off to a fast start with a 50 to 35 victory over Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, in 38 innings.

Neenah Coach Takes 8th Team to State Tourney

Neenah—Coach Ole Jorgensen this morning left on his eighth trip as coach of the Neenah High school basketball team to the state tournament at Madison, but this year's conquest for the rangy mentor and his championship quintet will be the state high school crown and not a mere class title.

With the exception that the stakes are higher, this season's finale almost is an exact repetition of last season. Last year, the Neenah Rockets won a co-championship with Shawano in the Northwestern Wisconsin conference, and then copped the district title at Menasha and the region crown at Kaukauna. This year the Neenah quintet won a co-championship in the conference with Shawano and New London and then annexed the regional championship last week end at Menasha.

The Red Rockets open their campaign for the state championship against Sturgeon Bay at 8 o'clock tonight. Sturgeon Bay, one of the teams in the eastern division of the conference, won the Keweenaw regional title, defeating Plymouth in the finals, 31 to 22. Sturgeon Bay had defeated Two Rivers, champions of the conference, in the first round.

Oshkosh All Stars Win First Championship Tilt

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

OSHKOSH—The Oshkosh All Stars marked down one game for themselves in their bid for championship of the National Basketball league when they put on a last minute spurt to defeat the Akron Firestones, 47 to 37, here last night.

The game was one of those close matches with neither team more than three points ahead of the other. In the last minute and a half the All Stars dropped in seven points to stretch their lead into a victory.

Chief basket manufacturer for the Oshkosh quintet was Leroy "Lefty" Edwards who accounted for 20 points but still seemed to lack some of that pep and vigor that made him the league's leading center as well as high point man. He played the entire game along with his teammate Charlie Shipps. Moir was the leading scorer on the Firestone team, tossing in 13 points.

The game opened with a basket apiece for Osburn and Moir of the invading team in the first minute of play. Edwards came back with a basket for the All Stars and Moir got even by putting in six points for Akron while Edwards made four points, Shipps two and Barle a free throw for the Oshkosh squad. Nowak the Akron center then tossed in a basket and Stankey came back with one for the All Stars to tie the score up at the end of the first quarter, 12 to 12.

Stars Trail At Half

Pederson opened up the second period with a basket to put the All Stars ahead but the invading Firestones swung back in rapid succession with a basket by Osburn, free throw by Bush, basket and free throw by Nowak and two free throws by Moir. Edwards then dropped in a basket followed by another basket by Pederson, an All Star forward. Osburn and Moir brought NAHEIM, Calif.—(7)—The Athletics "injury jinx" has connected with Benny McCoy, the $45,000 beauty, but not too seriously. The rookie second sacker was struck on the Adam's apple by a batted ball in pre-game practice yesterday but wasn't badly hurt.

Winter Haven, Fla.—If the start is any indication, the New York Giants are due to get some real flinging this season from their top-flight pitchers. Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher and Bill Lohrmann set the St. Louis Cardinals down with three hits and three unearned runs yesterday.

Clearwater, Fla.—Louis (Buck) Newsom, the talkative Detroit pitcher, makes his Grapefruit league debut today against the Dodgers. Manager Del Baker nominated him to work three innings, with southpaws Archie McKan and Tom Seats doing the rest of the mound chores.

Avalon, Calif.—Pleased over the excellent condition of his squad.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Although their record of 24 strikeouts in three exhibitions hardly looks like the usual Yankee performance, New York's world champions are beginning to take on the appearance of the 1939 club. Babe Dahlgren made his first appearance against the Reds yesterday and Joe DiMaggio reached camp in time for a workout.

Kaukauna Cagers Make Best Season Record in Years

Krumm's Squad Scores 653 Points Against 544 for Opponents

Kaukauna — Ending with second place in the regional tournament at Menasha, Coach Guy Krumm's cagers turned in the best season record in years at Kaukauna High school. The team, with a record of 13 wins and 8 losses, took second place in the western division of the northwestern conference, and was not eliminated until the next to the last game. It was Krumm's first year as pilot of the Kaws.

Including tournament games the quiet wound up with 653 points, compared to opponents' 544. Over the conference season Kaukauna led all loop teams in scoring, and placed four men among the first 14 high scorers.

On All-Conference Team
Bill Alger, star junior center, was placed on the all-conference team. Alger led Kaukauna in scoring with 195 points. Karl Giordana, another junior, was placed at guard on the second all-conference team. Giordana tossed through 116 points. Other totals were Joe Bloch, 134; Don Bislex, 101; Jimmy Swedberg, 76; Bill Tessen, 17; Willis Rannette, 7; Calvin Spice, 1; and Robert Belfort, 1.

Non-conference wins were scored over Waupesa, St. Mary's of Menasha, East De Pere and Appleton, with losses to Stevens Point, East Green Bay and St. Mary's. In conference play Kaukauna victories were over Clintonville 2, West De Pere 2, Neenah, Menasha 2 and New London, with losses to Shawano 2, New London and Neenah.

High points of the season included the squad's 55 points here against Clintonville, breaking a conference scoring record, and the defeat of Neenah here, 33 to 27, after the Rockets had won 9 straight games. Alger made the single scoring record with 20 points, with Alger and Giordana each making 16 once.

Of this squad only Bloch and Bislex will be graduated. With Alger, Giordana and Swedberg as a nucleus and several promising reserves on hand next year's team should be at least as strong.

THANKSGIVING DATE
Portland, Ore. (AP)—It may be a little early to worry about it, but it looks as if the date of Thanksgiving will be an issue again in 1940. Some calendars adhere to the old "last Thursday in November" practice and designate Thanksgiving as the 28th. But others—including some printed by the Federal government for the use of congressmen—give the date as the 21st.

Mrs. Joseph Obermeier. Following the business session cards will be played.

Mrs. Walter Sawyer was hostess to the Contract Bridge club at her home Friday evening. Honors were awarded to Mrs. Charles Masterson and the consolation gift to Mrs. Mike Mack. Mrs. G. M. Kaukauna Boxers Perform Tonight

Expect Large Crowd to See High School Team Against St. Norbert's

Kaukauna — With the close of the cage season Kaukauna fans turn their attention to boxing, as Coach Clifford H. Kemp's charges open another season at 8 o'clock tonight against St. Norbert's High school of De Pere. Last year's undefeated squad produced some large turnouts, and with some veterans back and capable newcomers to make their initial appearances, a big crowd is expected tonight.

St. Norbert's probably will show as good a squad as Kaukauna will meet all season. The high school and St. Norbert's college are a Wisconsin hotbed of boxing interest and seldom produce a losing team.

Tonight's home match inaugurates a schedule which includes home and home bouts with St. Norbert's, Kimberly, Oshkosh and Little Chute. The team travels to Marion, and Wrightstown High comes here to oppose the junior varsity. Two open dates may be filled.

Nine regular matches are on the card, and in addition several exhibition bouts will be worked in. The boxers will be weighed in and matched before the bouts. Kaukauna veterans likely to see action are Gordon Hennes, captain, 115, George Steffen, 124, Paul Feldt, 148, Don Keil, 124, William Mitchell, 100, Robert Lizon, 111, Ray Nagel, 108, and Karl Giordana, 160.

Johnson Claims Wallace Party Was Powerful Political Stunt

Washington, D. C. — For an affair so widely advertised as "non-political," Henry Wallace's birthday party for the A.A.A. was about the most powerful political stunt that has yet been pulled.

It was geared to get a capacity radio audience of our six to seven million farm families. Its timing was perfect to remind them that prior to the New Deal they had nothing from Washington but a continuous and magnificent run-around. They were also reminded that, from the moment the president took office, he began pushing for legislation, part of which they had so long demanded, and never stopped plugging until he got it.

On these facts, Mr. Roosevelt told them: "So it is more important than ever (due to the war) for the farmers to have a government in Washington that is looking out for their interests."

Mr. Farley warned them against taking it for granted that the farm "benefits" would go on unless they attended "to the votes in congress which keep it going, or to the views of men and parties seeking office."

That is a good deal like Aubrey Williams' widely condemned advice to WPA workers to "vote to keep your friends in power" but it is effective politics.

Mr. Farley also proposed a national holiday—"farmers' day"—to commemorate the occasion. Jim certainly is a talented political organizer. If he could add a "WPA workers' day" and a "Negroes' day" he would about complete the joining up of the "day" front of the minority class pressure groups upon which he must rely through public handouts for Democratic majorities. Later on, when the youth and age groups are made a little more class conscious, he could add a "youth" day and an "old folks" day. I am thinking of plugging for a federal "middle age" administration and for getting pensions for us in that group. Then we could have a "middle age day" and that would make it unanimous for the Democrats. But who would pay the bill? Maybe the babies.

Can Hardly Claim A Monopoly on Policy

The New Deal had a good opportunity and they made the most of it. But they go too far when they claim a monopoly on the policy of "equality for agriculture." A group of Republicans, led by Charlie McNary and George Peek, and a Democrat or two, invented most of the principles and arguments for their program. They were its Peters the hermits. For twelve years Peek and McNary preached the crusade and carried on one of the most bitter and tenacious fights in our political history. They united the farmers and educated the country. Three times they jammed such a program through a Republican house and twice they got it through a Republican senate also—only to have it vetoed. It is true that the veto was by a Republican president, but that record doesn't give any prior claim on this reform to the Democrats—much less to the New Dealers.

When Mr. Roosevelt was nominated, he didn't have the foggiest notion of what this development was all about. Mr. Wallace was a Republican and while he was probably sympathetic, he bore none of the heat and burden of that twelve years' war. Mr. Roosevelt was educated for his famous Topeka speech in 1932, about which he now boasts, by veterans of that war—mostly

Republicans. He and Mr. Wallace reaped the fruits of all these labors when they adopted these principles. They adopted the principles, but they have not carried them into effect to any permanent benefit to agriculture, which for the average of the last seven years has been in a much worse state as to price, income and future prospect than in the preceding seven. Part of this is their own—but not by anything undermining is directly due to the new Deal. For example, Mr. Roosevelt told the farmers something about relying on this administration in the matter of "lost markets overseas" but he did not add that Mr. Wallace's program has done much to cause those losses—notably for cotton.

The New Dealers, nevertheless, have a strong political case here. I think the Republicans can make it their own—but not by anything undermining is directly due to the new Deal. For example, Mr. Roosevelt told the farmers something about relying on this administration in the matter of "lost markets overseas" but he did not add that Mr. Wallace's program has done much to cause those losses—notably for cotton.
